Integrated Housing Successful

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

An experiment of an integrated neighborhood has been pronounced a complete success by the creators, its residents and numerous outsiders watching the growth of Lincoln's Corner.

The tract at 56th and X, listed as "the first planned integrated housing area in Nebraska," now has nine "very compatible and very happy" families fulfilling the goal of the Modern Community Developers (MCD) Corporation.

With two objectives in mind, the board of directors representing 267 stockholders in MCD set out to first buy a tract of land, which proved to be a problem in itself, and then find both white and minority families willing to live together.

Operating on the premise that "the world is now too small, too crowded, too populous and too rapidly changing to permit further temporizing with bigotry and discrimination, and that any man is entitled to buy land and build a house on the basis of his need and ability rather than on the basis of his color or beliefs," MCD was determined to prove that minority and white races could live side by side successfully and that an integrated housing development would be profitable.

No Problems

Board president Jack Knapenberger believes that the corporation has accomplished its "very important objective" with no problems.

But he admitted that another objective—that of being a "profit-making" corporation—was "not quite so successful," for the project is only showing a nominal profit after five years.

The only site which MCD could find for sale for its integration effort was larger than had been expected, and along with the rest of Lincoln, MCD has a housing surplus.

Then too, accomplishing the first objective—showing that integrated housing developments are possible—helped open up other neighborhoods for minority groups.

Modern Community Developers had established a 3-1 ratio of white and minority housing, which, at the time the corporation was formed, could be legally controlled.

But the Civil Rights law "is working against it," Knapenberger observed, although he reported that approximate ratio has maintained itself and is no longer a concern.

Two other routes have been proposed to the west of the association's planned route, but Seacrest presented a detailed study showing that the new route would travel through the areas of greatest population, education and defense facilities. It would service two metropolitan areas, 10 urban areas, and 15 college towns. The cattle area of northeast Nebraska also lies along the route.

But John Hossack, state highway engineer, said that "it's time to start working now." He said that in a year or two Washington will start considering ways to expand the Interstate system.

The route proposed—which would run through Lincoln and Beatrice—could not be under construction until after 1972, when the second allocation of Interstate funds is made.

But the Civil Rights law "is working against it," Knapenberger observed, although he reported that approximate ratio has maintained itself and is no longer a concern.

However, MCD does reserve the right to buy back property when it is to be sold.

The MCD idea, an indirect result of a United Church Women seminar in 1958, was started by a few "concerned" members of Action Coordinating Team who "wanted to make a gesture toward solving the problem of minority housing—to provide an example," recalls Mrs. Ed Weaver Jr., first board president.

The project, she said, attempts to answer the question, "What are we, in Lincoln, Nebraska, going to do to demonstrate our faith in the American concept of equality of opportunity for all?"

"No one expected it to solve the problem. But it was something instead of nothing," she said of the area.

The project has been quickly promoted by word of mouth with stockholders and interested persons encouraging their friends to consider Lincoln's Corner. MCD wasn't flooded with buyers, but the Lloyd MacDowell family decided to sell their house and move in "to be a part of the project."

We have been completely happy here," MacDowell said noting that they had "never even fielded a crank phone call."

"We don't think of our neighbors as being any different from anyone else's," he declared.

The Clarence Mabins built a house and moved there because "we had no choice," Mrs. Mabin explained. "But we've been very satisfied."

"The bond between people has been wonderful," she said and added that she thought anyone moving there "would be benefited."

North-South Route For Interstate Urged

A proposal for a north-south Interstate Highway—running from Salina, Kan., to Elk Point, S.D.—was presented to the Nebraska Highway Commission by Joe R. Seacrest, speaking for the North-South Interstate Association, Sunday night.

"Nebraska didn't fare so well," in the first allocation of Interstate mileage by the U.S. Bureau of Roads, Seacrest said. He pointed out that Nebraska is the only state in the Union, aside from Delaware, without a north-south or diagonal Interstate.

There is no north-south In-

Grand Island Man, 79, Dies After Crash

Grand Island (AP)—A 79-year-old Grand Island man died at a Grand Island hospital Sunday night of injuries suffered a short time earlier in a car-semi-trailer truck accident.

The victim was identified as Fred Hongsermeier, driver of the car.

The Safety Patrol said the Hongsermeier car and a truck driven by 42-year-old Marvin E. Walter of Centerville, Iowa, collided at the intersection of highways 2 and 34 near Grand Island.

Hongsermeier's 73-year-old wife, Louise, was treated at a hospital and released. Walter was not injured.

Injuries Fatal To Papillion Youth

Omaha (AP)—An 18-year-old Papillion youth, Donald Jackson, died at an Omaha Hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in a one-car accident on Interstate 80 near 72nd St., last Friday.

He was an Omaha University student who had been a four-year letterman in basketball and baseball at Papillion High School. He was alone in his car when it went off an overpass and plunged 53 feet onto the street.

Jane Powell, 36, Marries Publicity Man In Sydney

Sydney, Australia (AP)—Actress Jane Powell, 36, and Hollywood publicity man Jim Fitzgerald, 34, were married Sunday at Wayside Chapel, a Methodist church in the Sydney suburb of Kings Cross.

Miss Powell has married twice before and her eldest daughter, Monica, 18, was maid of honor. Her other children—Gary, 13, Suzanne, 11, and Lindsey, 8—also attended.

It was Fitzgerald's second marriage.

Miss Powell will complete personal appearances in Sydney and Melbourne, then take the children on a brief tour of Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and Europe, returning to the United States Aug. 1. She said she and her husband probably will holiday later in Europe or Mexico. Fitzgerald is returning to Hollywood in two weeks.

San Francisco (AP)—Seven international leaders of religious faiths with more than two billion worldwide members joined prayerful hands under one roof Sunday in support of the United Nations' quest for world peace.

Pope Paul VI sent his blessings from Rome. They were conveyed by a Syrian archbishop to the Cow Palace convocation for Catholics, Protestants, Jews, Hindus, Buddhists, Moslems and Eastern (Greek) Orthodox Christians.

A United States bishop of the Methodist church spoke for the Protestants. A rabbi from London spoke for the Jews.

Secretary General U Thant represented the United Nations whose delegates from 114 nations met Friday and Saturday to commemorate birth of the U.N. in San Francisco 20 years ago.

Comparable

"The ideological intolerance of today is comparable to the religious intolerance which prevailed not so long ago," U Thant told the huge gathering shortly after a 2,000-voice choir opened the convocation with "Now Thank Thee All Our God."

"We have had wars of religion, when men killed each other for no other reason than that they belonged to different religions. Today, while perfect religious tolerance may not prevail, we are generally willing to concede that each one of us should be free to seek his spiritual goal in his own way."

Cinder Slide Fatal

Tokyo (AP)—A 3,000-ton mound of coal cinders gave way under a torrential rain and swept down on 15 homes in suburban Kawasaki. Police said 24 persons perished, 14 were hurt and 25 were rescued or crawled to safety. A 6-year-old girl, Mayumi Suzuki, was pulled alive from the debris of her home 11 hours after the landslide struck. Her parents perished.

"No one expected it to solve the problem. But it was something instead of nothing," she said of the area.

calities the new "mast arm" type signals, with larger individual lights and the poles painted white and arms painted green (for "esthetic value," according to Traffic Engineer Robert Holsinger).

The annual investment of $120 billion in arms by certain members of the United Nations violates the spirit, if not the letter of the charter.

Right And Proper

Through the Most Rev. Martin J. O'Connor, titular archbishop of Laodicea in Syria, Pope Paul VI said:

"Self-government by 60 African and Asian nations will be of slight benefit to the millions living there if clouds of radioactive particles descend upon them and their soil like the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

"Political independence has no meaning for cemeteries."

Bishop Prince Taylor, first able to develop over the years a similar approach to the goal of peace and concede that the goal is more important than the means."

Right And Proper

Through the Most Rev. Martin J. O'Connor, titular archbishop of Laodicea in Syria, Pope Paul VI said:

"How truly right and proper it is that a religious convocation for peace has been included among the ceremonies commemorative of the signing of the United Nations charter 20 years ago."

On that day the state responded to local officials' call for help. "We knew from spot checks of hospitals, pediatricians and nearby March Air Force Base that something hot was going on," Hertz said.

Something In Common

Two hundred patients were quickly interviewed by telephone. "The hope was that those stricken had something in common," Hertz said.

"Did this blanket the community, or was it confined to geographic or socio-economic groups?"

The telephone survey was inconclusive. Next, 50 patients were chosen for extensive interview. "We surveyed the pets they had, the foods they ate, the places they had been—looking for a common denominator. We found none, except water, and even that wasn't common."

"Two of the 50 surveyed were infants—one taking bottled water, one on boiled water," Hertz said. "This put us off the track."

On May 29 three investigators arrived from the U.S. Public Health Service's communicable disease center, in Atlanta, Ga. Soon 10 more arrived, and the number of state local and federal investigators grew to 60.

When Started

As May ended another survey was ordered. "This one of 1,600 households," Hertz said. "We had to find when this started."

"Did it build up or, on one morning was everybody hit with it?"

Epidemic Ends For Riverside

... THREE DIE; CLAIM FILED

Riverside, Calif. (AP)—One month ago Sunday County health officials, routinely checking reports from hospitals and doctors, noted intestinal disorders were on the upswing markedly.

To date, more than 18,000 persons have served as uncomfortable targets for an organism homing in on them through the city's water system.

The organism—a bacterium called Salmonella Typhimurium—hits the intestinal tract, causing severe spells of vomiting, diarrhea and fever. Three victims have died.

A $5,000 claim has been filed against the city for medical and hospital bills and permanent bodily injury to an infant who was stricken.

BIGGEST IN NATION

"This now appears to be the biggest thing to hit the nation in almost 30 years, in terms of the number of persons affected within a given area," said Dr. Louis Hertz, regional director of the California Department of Public Health.

"I believe now that the epidemic stage—hard to define—is passed. The disease, communicable, now lingers on in the secondary stages, passed from one person to another," Hertz said.

The public health investigation lingers on, trying to find the source of infection and permanent bodily injury to an infant who was stricken.

On that day the state responded to local officials' call for help. "We knew from spot checks of hospitals, pediatricians and nearby March Air Force Base that something hot was going on," Hertz said.

On that day the state responded to local officials' call for help. "We knew from spot checks of hospitals, pediatricians and nearby March Air Force Base that something hot was going on," Hertz said.

One interesting question remains," Hertz said. "How do the people of Riverside, used to drinking deep well water for years, feel now about chlorination?"

STOP CHLORINATING?

"If we find what appears to be the source of contamination, will they want to take the chance and stop chlorinating?"

A $5,000 claim against the city of Riverside has been filed by D. L. Grable "for medical and hospital bills and permanent bodily injury to infant Jamie Lynn Grable who contracted the Salmonella through the city water supply."

Grable declined to disclose the nature of the child's injury.

In neighboring Orange County, Dr. Edward L. Russell, county health officer, said Salmonella usually spreads through some food source and that Riverside's water-borne organism "is unique as far as anybody knows."

Pittsburgh Prison Break Fails

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Three convicts armed with zip-guns and homemade bombs took two guards hostage Sunday night and attempted to shoot their way out of Western State Penitentiary. The attempt failed.

"It was a stupid attempt," a spokesman for Warden James Maroney said. "We don't see how they hoped to get to the wall."

One of the convicts sustained a severe hand cut when a homemade bomb exploded

as he was throwing it at advancing state policemen.

There were no other injuries. Both guard hostages, Sgt. John F. Waltz, 52, and Officer Joseph Ferrara, 32, were rescued unharmed.

Tear Gas Barrage

The escape attempt was quelled within 90 minutes when state troopers and armed guards threw down a barrage of tear gas into a hospital ward into which the convicts had retreated.

Maroney identified the three convicts as Richard Mayberry, 27, Philadelphia, serving 3½ to 10 years for an attempted Philadelphia prison break in which he had held a guard hostage; Dominick Codispoti, 35, Philadelphia, serving 2½ to 10 years for robbery, and Herbert Langes, 25, Lancaster County, Pa., serving 5 to 10 years for robbery.

Mayberry was treated at the prison hospital for a deep hand cut between the thumb and index finger.

None of the more than 1,000 other convicts took part in the break attempt. Most were in their cells, or attending a movie in the prison theater.

Homemade Bombs

Maroney said the convicts threw at least two homemade bombs down a hospital hallway toward advancing troopers and guards. He said the convicts fired about a dozen shots from their zip-guns. The troopers fired about as many shots in return.

"They (the convicts) had a chance of escape at all," Maroney said.

"They (the convicts) had no freedom for the guards' freedom. There was no deal," the warden said.

On Sun Porch

The break attempt began about 5 p.m., CST. After taking the two hostages, the three convicts made their way to a sun porch on the second floor of the two-story prison hospital and began firing across a 30-foot roadway at guards inside two towers atop the 40-foot-high prison wall.

Within minutes, state, Allegheny County and Pittsburgh police were mobilized. About 10 state policemen and as many armed prison guards were sent to the prison hospital to quell the break attempt. More than 200 policemen took up stations outside the prison.

Maroney said prisoners attending the movie were taken to their cells.

Other convicts hooted and hissed the police and guards, but made no attempt to take part in the escape attempt.

GI In Dominican Learns Of Brother's Execution

Perryville, Ark. (UPI) — PFC. Dickie Bennett, 20, had just come back from a reconnaissance patrol in the Dominican Republic when he learned that his older brother, Harold George, 25, had been executed by the Viet Cong in Viet Nam.

"My company commander told me," the young paratrooper said. "I was shocked."

Now Dickie has the job of helping console his widowed mother, Mrs. Pauline Bennett of Perryville. She still holds a faint hope that the communists were lying when Radio Hanoi broadcast that her son, a sergeant had been executed in reprisal for execution of communist terrorists in South Viet Nam.

Youngest of 9

Dickie, lean and tan, is the youngest of her nine children. "We lived here by ourselves after the other children were grown and gone," she said.

"It's been hard to learn to live without Dickie."

Dickie joined the paratroopers a year ago and he was sent to the Dominican Republic in May, shortly after rebellion broke out there.

The Viet Cong announced the execution of his brother Friday. Young Bennett arrived at Ft. Bragg, N.C., Saturday morning, was given leave, flew to Little Rock and arrived home Saturday night.

Young Bennett said he has received an extended leave and he did not know how long he would be at home.

Another Coming Home

Another soldier son, M.Sgt. Donald Bennett, 35, is stationed in Washington and is coming home for four days Friday during the July 4 holiday.

Bennett is a student at the Defense Language Institute. His cousin, Perryville Mayor C. A. Ezell, said Donald would be unable to complete his current course if he misses any classes.

Mrs. Bennett said she was amazed at all the expressions of sympathy that she has received from over Arkansas and the nation.

"They've written them they've called, and they've sent flowers," Mrs. Bennett said. "I don't know how we could ever thank them."

Pittsburgh Prison Break Fails

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Three convicts armed with zip-guns and homemade bombs took two guards hostage Sunday night and attempted to shoot their way out of Western State Penitentiary. The attempt failed.

"It was a stupid attempt," a spokesman for Warden James Maroney said. "We don't see how they hoped to get to the wall."

One of the convicts sustained a severe hand cut when a homemade bomb exploded

as he was throwing it at advancing state policemen.

There were no other injuries. Both guard hostages, Sgt. John F. Waltz, 52, and Officer Joseph Ferrara, 32, were rescued unharmed.

Tear Gas Barrage

The escape attempt was quelled within 90 minutes when state troopers and armed guards threw down a barrage of tear gas into a hospital ward into which the convicts had retreated.

Maroney identified the three convicts as Richard Mayberry, 27, Philadelphia, serving 3½ to 10 years for an attempted Philadelphia prison break in which he had held a guard hostage; Dominick Codispoti, 35, Philadelphia, serving 2½ to 10 years for robbery, and Herbert Langes, 25, Lancaster County, Pa., serving 5 to 10 years for robbery.

Mayberry was treated at the prison hospital for a deep hand cut between the thumb and index finger.

None of the more than 1,000 other convicts took part in the break attempt. Most were in their cells, or attending a movie in the prison theater.

HOMEMADE BOMBS

Maroney said the convicts threw at least two homemade bombs down a hospital hallway toward advancing troopers and guards. He said the convicts fired about a dozen shots from their zip-guns. The troopers fired about as many shots in return.

"They (the convicts) had a chance of escape at all," Maroney said.

"They (the convicts) had no freedom for the guards' freedom. There was no deal," the warden said.

ON SUN PORCH

The break attempt began about 5 p.m., CST. After taking the two hostages, the three convicts made their way to a sun porch on the second floor of the two-story prison hospital and began firing across a 30-foot roadway at guards inside two towers atop the 40-foot-high prison wall.

Maroney said prisoners attending the movie were taken to their cells.

Other convicts hooted and hissed the police and guards, but made no attempt to take part in the escape attempt.

No Price Tag For Youth's First SCS Experience

Wahoo — "Experience like this, you can't put a price tag on."

This was 18-year-old Robert Morris' observation of his duties associated with the Saunders County Soil Conservation Service here where he is one of the first enrollee's of the nation's first Soil and Water Conservation Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Bob will spend the summer assisting SCS personnel in field work on terraces, waterways, dams, and many other duties involving survey and planning. The income derived from his employment will be used to continue his college education where he will be a sophomore at the University of Nebraska.

Kingston, Jamaica (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., U.S. civil rights leader, laid a wreath here recently at a memorial to Marcus Garvey, a Negro leader famed for his "back to Africa" movement in the 1920s. Garvey died in London in 1940 at the age of 53.

and one of the main provisions of the Youth Corps is that it provides jobs to assist deserving youth needing financial assistance with employment that will be used to continue their education.

Bob says he will know a lot more about the resources of his county after working over a lot of the country this summer.

"I would never have had this opportunity unless something like this program provided the chance," said Bob.

Part of Bob's interest in conservation as a city boy can be attributed to his participation in Circle K Club work sponsored by the Wahoo Kiwanis Club through its active agricultural and conservation committee.

Valuable Asset

Gene Daniels, Saunders Co. SCS work unit conservationist, says, "We are proud of Bob, he has taken a great interest in his work and he can be a valuable asset to our SCS program. We believe the program has excellent possibilities for helping youth and the community."

Enrollees in the program will be recruited by the boards of supervisors in the 86 Nebr. Soil and Water Conservation Districts. J. Duane Chamberlain is director of the program. Chamberlain has been stationed at Alliance where he was an assistant secretary of the NSWC, but will move to Lincoln as head of the SWC Neighborhood Youth Program.

Emphasis will be placed on the young men and women participating in the program to continue their education," said Chamberlain.

Chamberlain has announced that of the 292 part and full-time jobs available through the program some 40 can be offered to girls for work in SCS offices.

Cool Cab Hot Topic For Tractor Show

Mead — Both the weather and program topics may be "hot" during the University of Nebraska's annual Tractor Day here July 29 — but one individual is assured of not being put on "the hot seat."

The lucky individual will be the driver of a tractor boasting an all-weather cab, which includes an air conditioner, radio, windshield wipers and other accessories.

The latest in comfort and safety are built into the cab, which is designed to fit all major makes of farm tractors. A tractor fitted with one of the cabs, which is manufactured by a Nebraska firm, will be in the parade of tractors and remain on display during the day-long program at the NU agricultural field lab.

Not Accepted

Earlier models of tractor cabs which appeared several years ago did not gain widespread acceptance among farmers, comments R.D. Schnieder, Extension safety specialist at the University of Nebraska. Many farmers, accustomed for years to working in dust, wind and the hot rays of the sun, rejected the first cabs as being "too fancy," impractical and unnecessary, he speculated.

However, with the advent of enclosed cabs on grain combines, the ice was broken, and now cabs for farm tractors are moving well, the NU specialist said.

The cabs with filtered air systems are a boon for farm operators with asthma, and provide all-weather protection for those who use tractors the year-round, Schnieder pointed out. As a safety measure, they prevent the type of falls from the tractor which have killed or injured many adults and children, he added.

The cab on the display tractor will include, in addition to air conditioning, radio and electric windshield wipers, dome lights, rubber floor mats, pressurizer blower and filters, and a defrosting fan for use in cold weather.

The all-transistor radio has a roof-type antenna. The refrigerator-type air conditioner weighs less than 40 pounds and is mounted on the cab roof.

The association, which is holding its 85th annual conference this week, cited Filipi for "over a quarter of a century, vigorously serving Nebraska as state sanitary engineer, advancing needed sanitary improvements by intelligent persuasion, always assisting small operators and producing most beneficial results for the citizens of his state."

A look inside the inviting cab may trigger a contest between dad and junior to see who takes the family tractor to the field, whether to do summer tillage operations or to pick corn when cold weather arrives this fall, Schnieder concluded.

NEA To Find Negroes Jobs In Teaching

New York (UPI) — The National Education Association said Sunday it is launching a million-dollar fund drive to help Negro teachers who lose their jobs when Southern schools are desegregated.

Lois Edinger, president of the NEA, said the problem has reached massive proportions in the past few months as Southern school systems move toward compliance with the civil rights law.

The money will be used to establish service centers to provide the dismissed teachers with legal assistance and job placement services. In some cases, the teachers will be helped to return to college for further education.

Miss Edinger's announcement came as the NEA officially opened its 103rd annual convention here. The convention runs through next Friday.

William G. Carr, executive secretary of the NEA, said the organization has asked the U.S. Office of Education for a grant of $200,000 to help get the service centers started.

This is in addition to the $1 million which will be raised by the NEA's 944,000 members.

The NEA said that in one Southern state, all the Negro teachers in seven counties were dismissed when the Negro schools were closed.

Kearney State Gets Money For Building

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College's application for $699,833 in federal funds to complete a science building has been approved, President Milton J. Hassel said Sunday.

The federal grant will be used to complete the building now under construction. Work on the facility has been underway since last year. The present shell of the building is being built at the cost of $500,000.

The 1965 legislature allocated $1,250,000 for completion of the building on March 31.

Money from the federal grant will be used for equipment and a science lecture hall. Bids on completion of construction will be let in August. The total cost of the building is $2,450,000. It is expected to be completed by September of next year.

The largest number of graduate students ever enrolled in agricultural education at the University of Nebraska are in the midst of advanced work this summer.

According to Dr. H. W. Deems of the ag education department, 45 persons, largely county Extension agents and vocational agriculture teachers, are enrolled in graduate work this summer. Most are just beginning advanced study, he said.

Students enrolled are:

Omaha Man Dies In Car Accident Near Tekamah

Tekamah (AP) — An Omaha man has been fatally injured in a U.S. Highway 73 crash near Tekamah.

Three others were injured.

Killed Saturday was George E. Dimmitt, 31, who was alone in his car. Officers said the vehicle struck a bridge railing then bounced back into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Rachel Williams, 20. The accident occurred 3½ miles south of Tekamah.

Injured were Mrs. Williams and two passengers in her car, her brother, Keith Robinson, 19, and Linda Denosmoen, 14, all of Tekamah.

Mrs. Williams was reported in fair condition in an Omaha hospital. The others were treated in Blair.

New Contract Ends Construction Strike

Omaha (UPI) — An ironworkers strike which has tied up construction in Omaha and some points outside has been settled and work will resume.

Kearney State Gets Money For Building

Kearney (UPI) — Kearney State College's application for $699,893 in federal funds to complete a science building has been approved, President Milton J. Hassel said Sunday.

The federal grant will be used to complete the building now under construction. Work on the facility has been underway since last year. The present shell of the building is being built at the cost of $500,000.

The 1965 legislature allocated $1,250,000 for completion of the building on March 31.

Money from the federal grant will be used for equipment and a science lecture hall. Bids on completion of construction will be let in August. The total cost of the building is $2,450,000. It is expected to be completed by September of next year.

45 Graduates Now In Midst Of NU Agricultural Studies

The largest number of graduate students ever enrolled in agricultural education at the University of Nebraska are in the midst of advanced work this summer.

According to Dr. H. W. Deems of the ag education department, 45 persons, largely county Extension agents and vocational agriculture teachers, are enrolled in graduate work this summer. Most are just beginning advanced study, he said.

Students enrolled are:

Fred Bauermeister, Central City; Sidney Borcher, Newman Grove; Clyde Beall, Red Cloud; Donald Blecha, Omond; Ulka Coskun, Turkey; Leon Deunk of Cortland (Norris High); Richard Douglass, Sutton; Earl Diedrichsen, Sergeant; Roy Equal, Superior;

Omaha Man Dies In Car Accident Near Tekamah

Tekamah (UPI) — An Omaha man has been fatally injured in a U.S. Highway 73 crash near Tekamah.

Three others were injured. Killed Saturday was George E. Dammitt, 31, who was alone in his car. Officers said the vehicle struck a bridge railing then bounced back into the path of a car driven by Mrs. Rachel Williams, 20. The accident occurred 3½ miles south of Tekamah.

Injured were Mrs. Williams and two passengers in her car, her brother, Keith Robinson, 19, and Linda Densmore, 14, all of Tekamah.

Mrs. Williams was reported in fair condition in an Omaha hospital. The others were treated in Blair.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FAS on your plates. This special powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASSTEECH at any drug counter.

Monday, Federal mediator Edward H. Reis said Sunday. He said both the Associated General Contractors and Local 21 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers approved a new three year contract.

The agreement provides wage increases of 15 cents an hour as of June 1 this year and again next year. Also provided is a 10 cents an hour contribution to a pension plan to be started in 1967 and a 7½ cents an hour increase on June 1, 1967, Reis said.

The AGC approved the contract Friday and the ironworkers voted their approval Sunday.

The three weeks strike had idled millions of dollars of commercial construction in Omaha. One of the outstate projects halted was the new Swift and Company Plant at Grand Island.

The buildings at the new Swift and Company Plant at Grand Island are now from 75 to 85 per cent complete, despite the strike.

The plant is scheduled to be ready for operation in September.

The $3.4 million packing plant will employ about 125 persons at the outset.

COMMISSION . . . is awarded by W. O. Baldwin, left, to Anneke Witteveen as her American family, Debbie Penry and Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Penry watch.

Omaha's New Mayor Sorensen Sees His Administration Taking Shape

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha's new mayor says he is very much encouraged by his first 30 days in office.

A. V. Sorensen says the high quality administrative team he promised is beginning to take shape. And already some temporary solutions to perennial problems have been found.

Grease pollution of the Missouri river is about at an end and a garbage-disposal crisis has been put off.

The Woodmen of the World has proposed building a 25-story building on the site of the city hall and the adjoining insurance building. That would be a step toward a new city government center elsewhere downtown.

The mayor has sketched the outlines of a housing policy and creation of a housing and neighborhood improvements office to co-ordinate the housing program that is under study.

Falls City Youth Drowns In River Before Storm

Auburn (UPI) — Scuba divers recovered the body of 17-year-old Jerry Mackey of Falls City from a hole in the Nebraska River about eight miles southeast of Auburn Sunday evening.

Nemaha County Sheriff George Kelley said Mackey was one of a group of four young couples from Falls City and Auburn who had been picnicking and swimming in the river Sunday afternoon.

The sheriff was told that a young Mackey disappeared about 2:15 p.m. A rainstorm held up search for the body for about an hour.

Sheriff Kelley said divers Paul Lima and his son, Arthur, of Nebraska City found the body.

Beatrice Tries To Raise Money For City College

Beatrice (UPI) — The enlistment of civic leaders working on a fund for the establishment of a new college in Beatrice is moving according to schedule, William Scully, general campaign chairman, said Sunday.

He said it is planned that a series of informative meetings be held for industrial, business and employee groups.

Falls City (UPI) — A strong wind storm accompanied by a brief heavy shower struck the Falls City community Sunday evening, causing considerable damage.

Mrs. Vincent Borge, operator of a trailer court near the lake, said a few minutes earlier a funnel cloud swept through the trailer court, damaging two trailers and a man's car.

Falls City (UPI) — A strong wind storm accompanied by a brief heavy shower struck the Falls City community Sunday evening, causing considerable damage.

Trees were uprooted and branches crashed down on parked cars and home roofs. The winds shattered several display windows in the downtown area.

The grand stand in the city park collapsed and a half dozen new trailer houses at the Frontier Mobile Home's factory were overturned.

Electrical power was disrupted in several areas and utility crews warned that live power lines were down throughout town.

Hebron Commissions AFS Student

Hebron — W. O. Baldwin, president of the Hebron Chamber of Commerce and commandant of the now mythical Fort Butler at Hebron, has commissioned the fort's third colonel.

Anneke Witteveen, American Field Service student from the Netherlands, was the recipient.

The honorary commission pays tribute to an actual Hebron fort of 1869. Presenting the commission, Mr. Baldwin reminded Anneke that she was in select company. Commission No. 1 was presented to Elmo Roper of New York City, a famed public opinion analyst and a native of Hebron.

The second commission went to H.L. (Kit) Carson, father of Nebraska's T.V. showman, Johnny Carson. Anneke, who is Hebron's first A.F.S. student, has been living in the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Penry here the past school year. A farewell reception attended by hundreds of Anneke's Thayer County friends was held at the Methodist Church in Hebron Thursday night.

Never A Dull Moment

By WILLIAM O. DOBBLER

Sometimes the news makes you feel good, like the report in the New York Times of annual moth damage of $500 million. The figures makes you stop and think how lucky you have been in losing only a few things to the moths. It does remind you, too, that this is the time of year to protect against moths and carpet beetles. The pleasure you might get from your losses in relation to the total national loss is shattered, however, by other facts.

The Times account, for instance, goes on to note that homes can be kept free from infestations by regular cleaning. The problem there can be seen immediately.

A Flurry Of Cleaning

The housewife who reads that will right away want to start getting things shipshape. If they are already shipshape, she will still want to make sure. That means moving a lot of things about and cleaning under them, waxing floors, cleaning windows and all sorts of jobs that are highly unpopular on a warm summer afternoon. Thus, the lowly moth has the best of you coming or going. Either he eats you out of your wardrobe or works you to death.

On the other hand, the fellow isn't all bad. There are those parts of a wardrobe that most of us would just as soon see eaten up or done away with in some fashion. Take, for instance, that sporty sport coat that was purchased a long time ago.

You bought the blasted thing in a moment of weakness, at a time when your spirits were high and you felt a little fed up with conventionality. The coat definitely removed you from the conventional crowd—so much so, in fact, that you can no longer bear the sight of the garment. The style was new and never did catch on and the color still gives you nightmares even after this long a time.

The trouble is that you paid a pretty good piece for the thing and you have never admitted your error in judgment around the house. Every time the coat was attacked by a member of the family, you felt obliged to come to its defense until you were finally backed into such a corner that you even had to wear the terrible thing. Pride is a funny thing. It's known in oriental circles as saving face but knows the confines of no single continent. Even the most humble spirit doesn't like to be subjected to out-and-out ridicule. An inclination to do an about-face can quickly be changed by too hard a push from another

Better Community Relations

Formation of a new Council of Communities for Lincoln should prove to be a valuable asset to city government in the years ahead. And as an assistance to government, it will serve the cause of all citizens.

The purpose of the citizens group is to promote better understanding between local government and all areas of the community. Past efforts along this line have not been too successful but most of them have heavily involved government itself on one end of the line.

One of the first jobs the group will face is a clear understanding of motives. The disappointing thing about so many sectional disagreements is that they stem from animosity rather than fact.

The new group will find that there are no people in city government who deliberately attempt to short-change any of the

REA's 30th Birthday

It was just 30 years ago that the Rural Electrification Administration came into existence.

Now 3.5 million farms have electrical connections. And despite the lack of density of customers, the local REA cooperatives are growing with the electrical field and are paying off their debts. They brought a new way of life to the farms and became one of the most successful of the New Deal programs.

Soviets Firm With Informal Warning

WASHINGTON — The controversy is still raging inside the White House over whether to bomb the Soviet anti-aircraft missiles around Hanoi before they can be used against U.S. planes over North Viet Nam.

But the Air Force and Navy are far more worried about the air-to-air missiles that are carried by Soviet-made planes now in North Viet Nam.

The Russians have flown in more than a dozen supersonic MIG-21 fighters and RL-28 light jet bombers—a story that has already leaked to the press. What hasn't leaked is the arrival of another 50 MIG-19 fighters in crates sent by sea from the Soviet Union.

Once uncrated and armed with deadly air-to-air missiles, these MIGs will be far more dangerous than the more publicized ground-to-air missiles now being installed around Hanoi.

For this reason, the generals and admirals have asked the President's permission to destroy the planes on the ground at their North Vietnamese bases.

Note: President Johnson is deliberately striking North Vietnamese targets, ever closer to the Chinese border. He has on his desk a plan for cutting all the railway and highway routes connecting Red China and North Viet Nam. So far, he hasn't given the go ahead, except

The Political Future Of Robert Kennedy

WASHINGTON—A battery of phones rings constantly. The yellow slips of calls to be returned rain down like leaves in the fall. Secretaries and assistants are crowded together and the buzz of their activity carries out into the small waiting room, almost always filled with hopeful petitioners.

This is operational headquarters in the new Senate Office Building of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York. Anyone interested in historical parallels can remember back to 1957 or '58 when the office of the then Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts was a similar command post with furious, unceasing effort built around the Kennedy goal of the White House.

He has a warm memory of what the presidential primaries and the intensive campaigns leading up to the primary contests did for his brother. It can even be said that without those forays in state after state, Jack Kennedy could not have dramatized his appeal, his youth and attraction.

But Senator Kennedy, a realist as all Kennedys are, sees in New York City a shadow that falls across 1966, extending beyond the confines of his own adopted state. If Rep. John Lindsay, a Republican with the clean-cut appeal of the late President Kennedy, should win the mayoralty race, it would be a grievous blow for the Democratic party and not alone in New York.

This would dramatize the weakening hold of the party long in power in the big-city states. California is a question mark next year and particularly if Sen. Thomas Kuchel, a moderate Republican with a wide following in both parties, should decide to run for governor. In Pennsylvania the Democrats have been hurt by a rough intra-party fight.

In short, to put the gloomiest possible look on it, from the Democratic viewpoint, if the three biggest states come under Republican control, the outlook for 1968 will be dimmed.

THADDEUS LOWE

Profiles In Science

The first famous use of military air reconnaissance is usually thought to have taken place during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 and the siege of Paris.

Actually, balloons were used for military purposes in the American Civil War as early as 1861. In September of that year, a balloon directed artillery fire at Falls Church, Va. There are reports of their having been used strictly for observation even earlier.

The brave aeronaut who made the military flights in the Civil War was Thaddeus Lowe, who has been called the "most shot at" man of the war.

He was born in New Hampshire in 1832, and died in Pasadena, California, in 1913. Besides being the inventor and organizer of the Union Army's balloon corps, he did valuable work in commercial refrigeration and the use of gas for street lighting. Lowe built an inclined railway from Pasadena to the top of Echo Mountain, now called Mt. Lowe. The railway was in use until 1934.

The balloons Lowe manned in the Civil War ranged in capacity from 15,000 cu. ft. to 32,000 cu. ft. of lighter-than-air gas, the largest able to lift five men besides the telegraph equipment needed to send information to headquarters on the ground.

There were valves in the top of the silk bags through which gas could be released to allow the balloonists to descend. The balloons were filled with inflammable hydrogen gas made in portable generators fitted onto military vehicles. Sulfuric acid was poured over iron filings to produce the gas, which was then purified by filtration.

The balloons did not float free but were attached to cables. Observers usually went to heights of about 500 ft.

The corps of balloonists was organized by Lowe and his associate, John LaMountain, an advocate of free flight over the enemy lines. Lowe and LaMountain began as friends and associates but ended as enemies and rivals.

The balloon corps played an important role in some great battles of the war, particularly during the peninsula campaign, making more than 300 ascensions.

Lowe was not given a rank in the army, but he worked as a kind of spy and could have been shot if captured. Because of this, Lowe left the corps before the end of the war and the corps was disbanded while still capable of performing a useful service.

NASON ON EDUCATION

Giving The Shy Child A Better Start

By DR. LESLIE J. NASON

The shy child has a miserable life, especially in school. For one thing, he is so afraid he is going to sound stupid when the teacher calls on him that he refuses to recite even when he knows the answer.

He probably stares at the teacher, hoping she will think he knows the answer and, therefore, will call on someone else; or stares at his feet, hoping the teacher won't even see him.

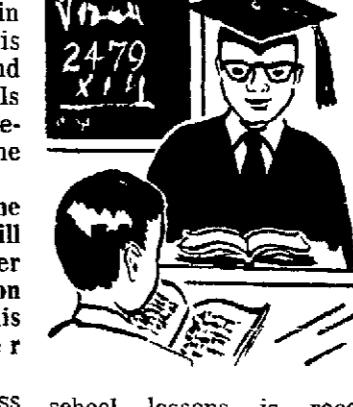

To him the whole process of going to school is a frightening one. Regardless of how smart he is, being too shy to recite will bring him lower school marks than he deserves.

The ability to say his say is a skill that will help him both in and out of school. Help him develop it and it will be an advantage to him as long as he lives.

Shyness is not limited to small children. Some junior and senior high school students are still plagued with it.

Summer, in the security of the home, is a chance to start overcoming this feeling. A good activity for younger children is play school, with plenty of chance for them to recite.

For older students, home practice in reciting actual school lessons is recommended. Pick out some school subject such as history in which there is a considerable amount of class recitation. Have the pupil read two or three pages and then each of you formulate one or two questions regarding it.

The pupil should decide on an answer to each of the questions and, probably in his own room, repeat his answers aloud several times. He can try them out on a chair, a picture on the wall or a mirror. Then he is ready to try them out on you.

When the teacher does call on him, he should remember that it is just what he wanted to do. He should also remember that the teacher and the class are with him and not against him.

An unsuccessful student is no credit to a teacher. Only successful ones count. And classmates would rather see one of their members succeed than fail.

Have your shy child talk directly to the teacher and it will minimize his embarrassment. He should think about the teacher and not himself. He should remember that mistakes happen in almost every class.

Remind him that even the best students sometimes come up with fuzzy answers. One mistake won't ruin a grade as much as an "I don't know" answer.

Encourage him to keep trying. It may take a few days but it will come, as it has for most of those who TRY.

Silver Coins Likely Collectors' Item

WASHINGTON — Representative Charlie Gubser, R-Calif., predicts that President Johnson's requested law to reduce the silver in coins will run smack into Gresham's economic law that "bad money drives good money out of circulation."

Just as shoppers invariably spend ragged dollar bills rather than the crisp new ones in their pocketbooks, so Gubser thinks they will hold onto the half-dollars with high silver content, while spending the ersatz ones soon to be minted.

As a result, according to Gubser-Gresham, the $2.25-million worth of coins now in circulation will probably disappear into the closets of hoarders, thus producing an even more drastic coin shortage than we now have.

Today's shortage of silver, which was once such a glut on the market that three-presidential candidate William Jennings Bryan wanted us to go on a combination silver-gold standard, has prompted LBJ to ask Congress for quick authority to substitute cheaper metals in dimes, quarters and half-dollars.

Congress will undoubtedly pass the law, but Gubser wants it amended to provide that a small quantity of some rare metal other than silver be added, so that the new coins will be as attractive to collectors as the old. Otherwise we'll still have no coins for slot machines and candy bars.

Sticking in another expensive metal might, however, gum up a tasty feature of the Johnson bill. Gubser says that under the President's proposal, Uncle Sam will reap a profit of at least forty cents on every fifty cent piece.

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

"I see why you're not arguing—you're asleep."

Never A Dull Moment

By WILLIAM O. DOBLES

Sometimes the news makes you feel good, like the report in the New York Times of annual moth damage of $500 million. The figures makes you stop and think how lucky you have been in losing only a few things to the moths. It does remind you, too, that this is the time of year to protect against moths and carpet beetles. The pleasure you might get from your losses in relation to the total national loss is shattered, however, by other facts.

The Times account, for instance, goes on to note that homes can be kept free from infestations by regular cleaning. The problem there can be seen immediately.

The housewife who reads that will right away want to start getting things shipshape. If they are already shipshape, she will still want to make sure. That means moving a lot of things about and cleaning under them, waxing floors, cleaning windows and all sorts of jobs that are highly unpopular on a warm summer afternoon. Thus, the lowly moth has the best of you coming or going. Either he eats you out of your wardrobe or works you to death.

On the other hand, the fellow isn't all bad. There are those parts of a wardrobe that most of us would just as soon see eaten up or done away with in some fashion. Take, for instance, that sporty sport coat that was purchased a long time ago.

You bought the blasted thing in a moment of weakness, at a time when your spirits were high and you felt a little fed up with conventionality. The coat definitely removed you from the conventional crowd—so much so, in fact, that you can no longer bear the sight of the garment. The style was new and never did catch on and the color still gives you nightmares even after this long a time.

The trouble is that you paid a pretty good price for the thing and you have never admitted your error in judgment around the house. Every time the coat was attacked by a member of the family, you felt obliged to come to its defense until you were finally backed into such a corner that you even had to wear the terrible thing. Pride is a funny thing. It's known in oriental circles as saving face but knows the confines of no single continent. Even the most humble spirit doesn't like to be subjected to out-and-out ridicule. An inclination to do an about-face can quickly be changed by too hard a push from another direction. When an individual gets himself in the soup, he has to be allowed to get out gracefully or he might stay there even if he drowns.

That's the way with that crazy sport jacket. You walk down the street in it with such a feeling of self-consciousness that you yourself glow almost as brightly as the coat. A hot day is always welcomed because you can then walk along with the coat over your arm rather than on your back and have a good excuse for not wearing the garment. When it comes time for going somewhere with the rest of the family, not a word is said about the coat. They won't criticize then for fear of goading you into wearing the thing and embarrassing everyone.

But does the moth cooperate with you? Does he eat up that awful sport jacket? It hasn't been cleaned and put away in moth balls during the summer for all the time you have had it but the moths still haven't touched it. It would be a real blessing if they would feast upon the coat but apparently it is too much even for them.

The sport jacket isn't the end of things, either. Most of us have perfectly good clothes that simply seem to wear unusually well. Every now and then you will buy a suit that wears like iron. It lasts so long that you become dreadfully tired of it but the more punishment you inflict upon it, the more determined it seems to stand up.

Wear it to a picnic and the lemonade is invariably spilled on someone else. You could take a hike in the woods in that suit and not a thing would touch it. You could throw it into a washer of hot water and it wouldn't shrink a fraction of an inch. But do the moths get to the suit and fill it full of holes while it rests unused on a hanger through its off season? No, they never lay a tooth on the garment. But leave your favorite suit unprotected and the moths will all but devour it. When pulled out after its seasonal rest, it looks as if it were fashioned from a tennis net.

Obviously, if the moth were just a bit more intelligent and blessed with a little more sense of cooperation, he could be a real asset to humanity. But being the illogical insect that he is, he well warrants the preventive measures that are constantly taken against him. Eating to the tune of $500 million a year makes him a pretty formidable foe.

Better Community Relations

Formation of a new Council of Communities for Lincoln should prove to be a valuable asset to city government in the years ahead. And as an assistance to government, it will serve the cause of all citizens.

The purpose of the citizens group is to promote better understanding between local government and all areas of the community. Past efforts along this line have not been too successful but most of them have heavily involved government itself on one end of the line.

One of the first jobs the group will face is a clear understanding of motives. The disappointing thing about so many sectional disagreements is that they stem from animosity rather than fact.

The new group will find that there are no people in city government who deliberately attempt to short-change any of the citizens of this city, regardless of their geographic location. They will also find that the various geographic areas of the city are quite understanding if they have the facts.

Too often in the past, it has been assumed that the government or one geographic group lacked sincerity or honesty. Situations will develop that might constitute some inequity but they are not the product of malice.

It is hoped that the new citizens group can bring about, first of all, greater confidence between government and people in all areas. Then, it will find its job of balancing municipal services, programs and improvements a much easier one. It will then be encouraging the cooperation and understanding that is essential to real progress.

REA's 30th Birthday

It was just 30 years ago that the Rural Electrification Administration came into existence.

Now 3.5 million farms have electrical connections. And despite the lack of density of customers, the local REA cooperatives are growing with the electrical field and are paying off their debts. They brought a new way of life to the farms and became one of the most successful of the New Deal programs.

The REA, which is mainly a federal bank, advances capital to local cooperatives which can show a need. The loan interest rates have varied up to 4 percent, but currently are at 2 percent. This is largely because Congress, after World War II, desired the rural to serve unprofitable areas and cut the interest rate to make it practicable. Now 98 percent of rural homes have the service. But the local REA's, which must continue that service, have a stiff fight on their hands to keep the 2 percent rate. We should not allow short-term arguments to prevail. It would be bad business to manipulate such a large element of business into bankruptcy. Moreover, while electrification is popular in rural areas, it has also created a change in farm life. And farming itself is in economic difficulty. We would knock down more than a few farm lines if we knocked down the REA's.

Rural electrification began as a means of creating employment during the great depression of the '30s. It didn't work that way. So it was set up as a department in itself with permanent banking power and has operated with hardly any change since that time.

It was mainly the leadership of three men which put the idea over. They were President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, and Rep. Sam Rayburn, of Texas.

Lung Infection Caused Actor's Death

STEVE COCHRAN DIED DURING CRUISE

Guateamala (P) — A medical examiner performed an autopsy on the body of a man identified as Hollywood actor Steve Cochran Sunday, and the preliminary report said the immediate cause of death was an acute pulmonary edema (lung infection).

The examiner said the infection paralyzed him two days before his death 12 days ago aboard the 40-foot schooner Rogue in the Pacific off Guatamala. The definitive report from the autopsy is expected within 10 days.

Three Mexican women aboard the craft said death came June 15, two days after the illness first struck. The women, who reported they were hired to work in a movie, said they did not know how to handle the craft and drifted until a tuna boat took them in tow and brought them to the Guatemalan port of Champerico Saturday.

The medical examiner, Dr. Abel Giron of Guatamala, said he knew Cochran and that the body on which he performed an autopsy was his.

The U.S. vice consul in Guatamala, Herbert Horowitz, said papers on the body gave the name Robert Alexander Cochran. The actor used the first two names at times, his friends have said. Cochran was 48.

Some Confusion

The variance of names caused some confusion as to whether the body was actually that of Cochran.

Dr. Giron said he could not pinpoint the exact cause of death until he received a laboratory report, which may take 10 days.

In Los Angeles, a friend of Cochran, advertising executive Bruce Pennington said Cochran left California in mid-January to check on locations for a movie.

According to the women aboard the Rogue, Cochran hired them in Acapulco, Mexico. They were identified as Eva Castellanos Monteros, 25, Eugenia Bautista Zacarias, 19 and Lorenza Infante De La Rosa, 14.

Storm Hit

Miss Monteros told a reporter they left Acapulco with Cochran on June 3 and hoped to reach Costa Rica in eight days; but a storm hit and damaged the foreward mast. She said Cochran made repairs and the voyage continued. On June 13, she said, Cochran complained of severe headaches and fainting spells and took to his quarters. From his bunk, he instructed the women on how to sail the craft, she said. She reported he became paralyzed and could move only his head. Then his temperature rose and he died shortly after 5 a.m. June 15, the woman said.

She added that several ships passed them but apparently did not understand their calls for help. Finally the tuna boat Bello Portugal came up and towed the Rogue into Champerico.

Cochran had been married three times. His marital status at the time of his death was not known in Guatamala.

In Los Angeles, Pennington, a former script writer, said he wrote the movie Cochran planned to produce. Titled "Captain O'Flynn," the story revolved about an expensive schooner commanded by an eccentric captain and sailed by a crew of six beautiful women on a voyage from Puerto Rico to Acapulco.

Double's Role

Pennington said Cochran hoped to get English actor Alec Guinness to play the O'Flynn part, with Cochran in no more than a double's role.

The picture had six women's roles, not yet cast, Pennington continued. He said Cochran made several preliminary cruises from Los Angeles harbor with groups of girls, seeking those who could both sail a boat and double in long shots for the featured actresses.

Silence Greets U.S. Aid Ship; Egyptians Cheer Russ Wheat

Cairo (P) — Amid cheering crowds, the first Soviet-aid wheat to Egypt arrived Sunday at the Mediterranean port of Alexandria.

The Soviet freighter Dubossary, carrying 8,845 tons of wheat purchased by the Soviet Union from Australia, entered port while workers and crowds along the dock cheered "Long live Soviet-U.A.R. friendship."

The Russian ship docked only a few hours after the American freighter Sabrina sailed out of Alexandria after unloading 24,000 tons of U.S. wheat. There were no cheers for the American vessel.

The American cargo was part of resumed shipments of $37 million worth of food supplies under a three-year-old aid agreement that expires next Wednesday. Final shipments had been suspended until President Johnson ruled they were in the U.S. national interest.

Soviet wheat shipments were announced only three days ago. Ships carrying wheat, which the Soviet Union had to buy abroad to supplement its own short supply, had been diverted to Egypt. Capt. Trubachz-Yuz of the Dubossary said that while in the Red Sea he received instructions to change course and unload at Alexandria, instead of at Odessa, on the Black Sea.

There are reports that two more Russian shipments of about 10,000 tons each are expected here before the end of the week. The overall amount of Soviet wheat aid scheduled for Egypt totals 300,000 tons.

The intruder left a note: "You people sure are poor. A good burglar can't make an honest living."

The writer drank a soft drink, though.

New Protest For Ben Bella Urged

Algiers (P) — Leaflets circulated in Algiers Sunday calling for more demonstrations against the ouster of President Ahmed Ben Bella. One group called for a general strike Monday and another for Ben Bella followers to bang saucepans on their balconies in a "casserole concert" of protest.

Police in steel helmets and armed with tear gas grenades and submachine guns held a tight guard in the streets.

The call for the "casserole concert" is a playback to the European settlers who opposed independence for Algeria from France in 1962. Tracts urged the Ben Bella followers to appear on their balconies Monday and bang saucepans to the rhythm of "Liberate Ben-Bella" (French meaning free Ben Bella).

European Chant "The old European chant was 'Algerie Francaise' (French Algeria).

The center of Algiers has been in almost nightly uproar since the coup headed by Col. Houari Boumediene removed Ben Bella as the government chief. Boumediene is now the Algeria leader.

The leaflets calling for more demonstrations and a general strike for Monday and Tuesday circulated as foreign ministers and diplomats here for the now postponed African-Asian conference were trying to book air passage home. May airlines reported they were completely booked. Some delegates sought charter flights.

The last straw for many delegations was the explosion Friday night which wrecked part of the conference building at the Club Des Pins, 12 miles west of the city.

Guard Finds Car

Oslo, Norway (P) — On an early morning inspection, a watchman at Oslo's Grand Hotel found a small car had crashed into the street-level restaurant. On further examination, the guard learned the smashed vehicle was his own car which he had loaned to a young friend the night before.

By unanimous and in some cases reluctant consent, the African-Asian leaders abandoned plans Saturday to hold a summit conference of chiefs of state here this week, and postponed the top level meeting until Nov. 5, again in Algiers. The foreign ministers were summoned to meet here Oct. 28.

NEWS

of the suburban areas

Parents send their children to far off colleges with the thrill of seeing them graduate as well as the excitement of traveling to New York, California, or wherever to visit with them. Then there is other travel news. Suburbia reports for example, the good fortune of a Lincoln Air Base family who will be stationed in their home state of Washington.

KIMBALLCREST

There seems to be a little travel activity in the Kimballcrest area, at least for Mrs. Kenneth Clark. She left Friday to spend one week in New York City with her daughter Miss Barbara Clark. Barbara recently received her Master of Arts Degree in teaching from the John Hopkins University. After spending the week in New York with her mother, Barbara will leave for a stay in Europe.

Another traveler is Miss Cheryl Crosser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crosser. Cheryl is spending part of the summer in Berkeley, Calif. attending a YWCA training session.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

A Lincoln family, who are former residents of the Washington State area, have been stationed at the air base near Seattle, Wash. They are Captain and Mrs. W. H. Molchoir and their children Carol and Philip. The Molchoir family left last week with their trailer on a months vacation which will take them to the southwest part of the United States and finally to the Seattle area.

There is also news of a weekend trip. Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Leacock and their children Darrell, John, and Randy will spend the Fourth of July weekend in Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Michaelsen and their children Judy and Linda. The time will be spent in a cabin on the lake swimming and boating.

SKYLINE TERRACE

Skyline Terrace has a new resident. Mr. and Mrs. Don Kafpari have chosen a new Lincoln address at 524 Skyway Rd. Terrace Road also has new faces. They are Mr. and Mrs. Prosper Duensing, who have moved to Skyline Terrace from Beatrice.

Busy Skyline Road also reports a wedding reception. Mr. and Mrs. William Behrens entertained the neighborhood in honor of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Denver Behrens, who were recently married.

TALK

of the town

This is our people-do-interesting-things morning. And we'll begin by telling you that for Miss Gaynelle Groth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Groth, vacation is over. At least the most relaxing part of it is over. Miss Groth, who has just completed her sophomore year at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, left Lincoln early last week to spend a day or two at Ann Arbor—another day at Midland, Mich., for a brief visit with her sister, Miss Gretchen Groth—and then to New York City from where she flies directly to Amsterdam. From then on her travel will be more or less a seminar in which a certain number of students will participate. The travel-as-you-study tour takes the group from Amsterdam to Geneva, Switzerland. From there the members go to Algiers, and after some time there will fly from Tunis to Cairo and a study of Egypt. Then to Jerusalem—to Jordan for more study, and on to Istanbul, and a tour of Turkey. Later there is time to be spent in Greece. From Aug. 24, to Sept. 24, Miss Groth will travel on her own, and plans to see considerable before going to Beirut where she will spend her junior year at the American University.

There were some interesting guests in Lincoln last week, too—Miss Gayle Anderson, who is attending Juilliard School in New York City, was in Lincoln and was the house guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson. Accompanying Miss Anderson to Lincoln were two of her classmates, Miss Sung Mi Cho of Seoul, Korea, and Miss Edna Golandsky of Israel. The other member of the visiting foursome was Miss Patricia Kennedy of New York City—a student at Vassar College. The travelers were on their way to Aspen, Colo.

Wedding of Dorothy Perry DuTeau, Dale Wolff Took Place on Sunday

In the presence of only the immediate members of the families and a small group of very close friends, the marriage of Dorothy Perry DuTeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Perry, to Dale Wolff, son of

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wolff of Madison, Minn., was solemnized at 3:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, June 27, at the home of the bride's parents. Dr. J. Ford Forsyth, minister at the First-Plymouth Congregational Church, read the lines of the service.

Following the ceremony a small reception was held.

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Wolff presided at a dinner at the University Club in prenuptial courtesy

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass 1 ♠ 3 ♦ 3 ♥

4 ♦ 6 ♣

Opening lead-nine of diamonds.

This hand occurred in the match between Great Britain and the United States played in New York in 1955.

At the first table, with an American pair North-South, South arrived at six clubs on the bidding shown. West led the nine of diamonds, not the king, in the hope that his partner would win it and return a heart.

However, declarer won the trick in dummy with the ace, led a club and finessed the nine, then drew trumps and cashed the ace of hearts. When West showed out, declarer took a spade finesse, losing to the king, and thus made the slam for a score of 1,470 points.

South's play of the hand, though successful, was not as convincing as the play by declarer at the second table, where the slam was reached on this bidding:

East South West North
Pass 1 ♠ 3 ♦ 3 ♥
5 ♦ 6 ♣

West led the nine of diamonds and the British declarer, Terence Reese, adopted a line of play that offered a better chance than the previous declarer had given himself.

Reese decided not to risk the club finesse, which, without seeing the opponents' cards, offered very little advantage. Instead, he ruffed the diamond and then cashed the A-K of clubs and ace of hearts. When West showed out, Reese played a heart to the king, followed by the seven of hearts.

East had to cover with the nine, which South ruffed. Reese now played a club to the queen and could then claim the rest regardless of what East elected to return.

Whether East played a diamond (dummy still had the ace), a heart or a spade, dummy's hearts would become established and Reese would automatically win the rest of the tricks.

It turned out that Reese's method of play merely tied the previous result, but it was nevertheless a well-played hand.

DEAR ABBY Brides Chose

Sunday Afternoon Weddings

Abigail

Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have created quite a stir in the town of Casper, Wyoming, where I live.

In protest to the ridiculous styles we women are being forced to wear, I have volunteered to ride a horse down the main street of Casper, wearing only a ribbon in my hair. My friends say I should. What do you say, Abby?

MODERN-DAY LADY GODIVA

DEAR GODIVA: If it's attention you want to attract, I advise against it. Everybody in Casper, Wyoming has SEEN a horse.

DEAR ABBY: The man who has asked me to marry him displays an almost unnatural interest in other women. I have never been the jealous type, and I can certainly understand his finding other women attractive, but he is so obvious it's embarrassing. When we are in a public place, such as a restaurant, he looks around and finds the best-looking woman in the room, and he then concentrates on her. I would notice his eyes going in her direction constantly. When we are in his car, and must stop for a red light, he leans forward so he can see who is in the car to the right. If it's a woman, he just stares at her. He's sweet and wonderful and gives me all his attention when we are alone or in a dark room. This might seem like a petty complaint, but I don't think I could overlook it after we are married. I'd like your opinion.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Life cannot be lived in a "dark room." Go with him longer and get to know him better. And if he can't lose this objectionable characteristic lose HIM. It would be just a matter of time before you'd be telling it to the judge.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JACK: Forget it. Behind every successful man are ten people who say they went to school with him.

Lighted white candles formed the background in Calvary Lutheran Church at Swede Home, Sunday afternoon, June 27, for the wedding of Miss Jeannine Faye Heckman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Heckman of Osceola, and Timothy George Darnauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil G. Darnauer. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Larry Casper assisted by the Rev. Fred Darnauer of Cushing, Iowa, uncle of the bridegroom.

Frocked in frosted silk in the deep lavender tone were Miss Sandra Peterson, St. Paul, Minn., the maid of honor; Miss Mary Appleton, Lexington, and Mrs. Robert Taylor, Millard, the bridesmaids; and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Betty Poland, Seaside, Calif.

Michael Mikos of Dwight, served as best man, and the ushers were Kent Heckman, Osceola; William George, Omaha; Donald Beatty, Fremont; Verner Johnson, Wayne Ahlers, David Kahm and Larry Slater, Lincoln.

The bride's princess gown was fashioned of white peau de soie. A rounded neckline contoured the sculptured bodice, and the skirt was draped into back fullness and extended into an aisle-wide train. She wore a train-length mantilla of imported lace.

The couple will live in Lincoln at 412 So. 27th. Both are former students at Luther College, Wahoo, and Mr. Darnauer will continue his studies in the fall at Midland College, Fremont.

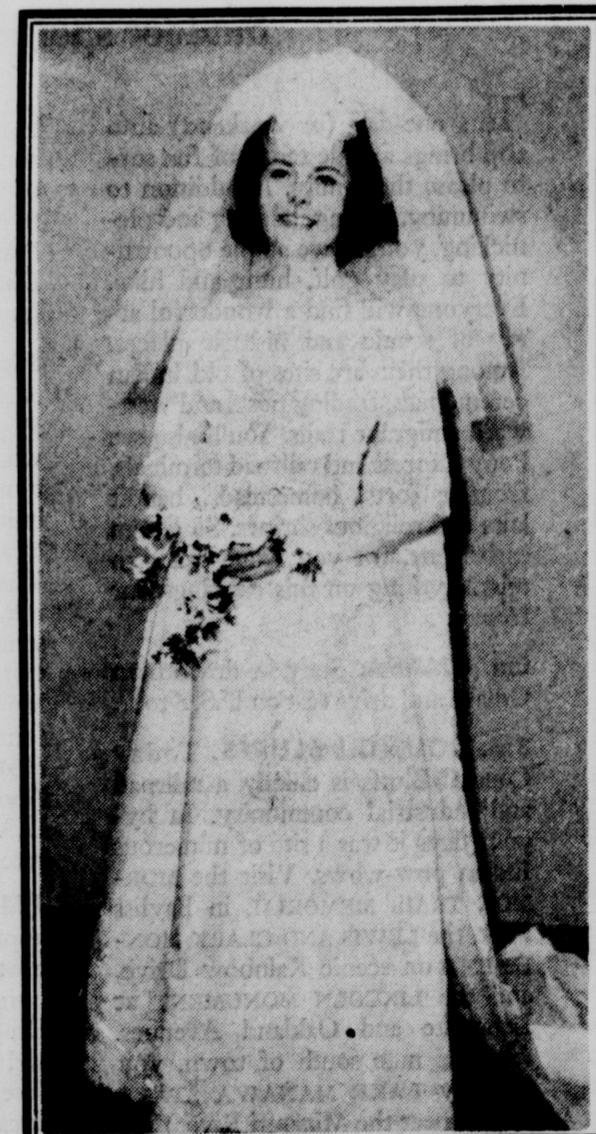

Miss Bonda Haefner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Haefner, became the bride of Raymond Palmer, son of Mrs. Mildred Palmer of Hooper, at 3 o'clock wedding which took place Sunday June 27. Dr. Carl M. Davidson read the lines of the ceremony at the First Methodist Church, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Thomas C. Smith, organist, who also accompanied Miss Wanda Nelson, vocal soloist.

Empire sheaths of pastel blue crepe fashioned with white lace bodices were worn by the attendants, Miss Lorelei Lovejoy, the honor attendant; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Harry James, Mrs. Russell James and Mrs. Ron Urbom.

Dana Palmer of Hooper served his brother as best man, and the ushers were Don Muer, Hooper; Tom Howe, Humboldt; and Wayne Stark, Fremont.

The bride's gown of white Chantilly lace and chiffon was designed in the period mode. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was dotted with pearls and iridescent sequins, and the very full skirt of chiffon was edged with a dust ruffle of the lace which continued into a train. Her illusion veil was held by a crown of jeweled illusion petals, and she carried a white Bible clustered with pink sweetheart roses.

Mr. Palmer and his bride will make their home in Lincoln, where the bridegroom is a student at Nebraska Wesleyan University.

All-white gladioli and daisies decorated the chancel of the First Baptist Church at Blair, Sunday afternoon, June 27, for the marriage of Miss Sally JoAnne Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Burke of Blair, to Lt. Charles W. Zavadil, USAF, son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. O. Zavadil of Lincoln. The ceremony was solemnized at 3 o'clock by the Rev. J. Kemmerer, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Zavadil.

Miss Linda Frank of Lincoln, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids, Miss Linda Anderson, Albion, and Mrs. James Lightfoot, Valentine, wore sheaths of yellow organdy.

Serving as best man was Dean Zavadil of Lincoln, and the ushers were Lt. Jeff Davis, Bellevue; Tim Brown, Blair; Jim Swift, Sioux City, Iowa; and Dean Daniels, Lincoln.

The bride appeared in a gown of white silk organza over taffeta. A bateau neckline accented the long-sleeved bodice, which was patterned with jeweled Alencon lace, and the lace bordered the full skirt and was repeated on the court train which extended to chapel length. A cluster of pearl-trimmed illusion petals held her bouffant veil, and white orchids and roses formed her cascade bouquet.

Lt. and Mrs. Zavadil both graduates of Nebraska Wesleyan University, will live in Omaha where the bridegroom is stationed at Offutt Air Force Base. He is a member of Zeta Psi fraternity, and Mrs. Zavadil's sorority is Delta Zeta.

West led the nine of diamonds and the British declarer, Terence Reese, adopted a line of play that offered a better chance than the previous declarer had given himself.

Reese decided not to risk the club finesse, which, without seeing the opponents' cards, offered very little advantage. Instead, he ruffed the diamond and then cashed the A-K of clubs and ace of hearts. When West showed out, Reese played a heart to the king, followed by the seven of hearts.

Atom Smasher Competition Steep

. . . AEC WON'T HINT AT WHO'S AHEAD FOR BIG PRIZE

Washington — Who is ahead in the frenetic race to grab one of the richest federal bonanzas ever dangled before a palpitating chamber of commerce?

The prize is the world's biggest atom smasher and the Atomic Energy Commission doesn't know yet where it's going. or will AEC hint at any favorites in the scramble.

But it does know it has been swamped with a bewildering flood of proposals from 98 petitioning states, counties, cities and individuals, all eager to share a payoff rich in payrolls and prestige.

The status stakes are high for any community winning the proposed 200-billion-electron-volt (BEV) accelerator. It will be a world wonder, far overshadowing the existing 33-BEV American giant and the 70-BEV machine the Russians are reported to be building.

$280 Million To Build

And it's not hard to find the profit motive for having such a huge contraption in the neighborhood. It will cost $280 million to build and millions more to operate.

There will be the cash flow from salaries to the resident staff of scientists, engineers and housekeepers—plus the spending by visiting savants come to share the secrets the vast apparatus is expected to wrest from the atom. spend money.

To say nothing of garden-variety tourists, who also "For sheer gall," said AEC research director Paul McDaniel, "no proposal topped that of a man who offered to sell us land he had under option at $80 an acre for $800 per acre."

When last seen, that offer was at the bottom of the heap of proposal papers that, if piled atop each other, would make a stack 15 feet high.

McDaniel and his staff expect to winnow the proposals down to "a manageable 15 or so" within two or three weeks. The screened propositions then go to the National Academy of Sciences, which will recommend outstanding candidates to the AEC commissioners in time to make a final selection by the end of this year. Then President Johnson will have the last word.

Cultural Amenities

Most of the offers stick to AEC requirements for good but cheap land, ample supplies of low-cost water and electricity, air travel availability, cultural and scientific amenities and community readiness to cooperate.

To meet the need for at least 3,000 acres, McDaniel said several states "put their spy glasses on land the federal government already owns."

Ohio, for example, gave assurances it could provide 3,000 acres from the Army's Ravenna ammunition loading plant, now idled.

California's Alameda County put a twist on the theme of using existing federal land. The county promised to relocate a 932-acre prison farm it now leases from the Army at Camp Parks if only Washington agrees to locate the atom smasher at the closed-down military facility.

Obvious Candidate

Washington State is pushing an obvious candidate — Hanford, where the AEC has a plutonium plant with more capacity than is needed for nuclear weapons material production and a reactor that already is generating electricity.

Several communities offered land free to the government.

Nebraska has offered facilities at the Sidney Ordnance Depot and the Mead Ordnance Plant in its bid for the smasher.)

Indiana followed this line to the point of holding a special session of the legislature to give the governor authority to condemn the needed acreage.

Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex., — not ordinarily very cordial to each other—got together on an offer to condemn land and put up $2 million toward its purchase as gift to the federal government.

Colorado coupled its proposal for the use of Lowry Air Force Base bombing range with enticing prose extolling the grandeur of its Rocky Mountain scenery and the availability of fresh mountain water.

No-Cost Land

Oregon also offered no-cost land between Portland and Eugene, with grand scenery to match.

Orlando, Fla., offered 5,000 acres free and clear. As do most of the proposals from established cities, the Oran-do pitch stressed the community-acceptance theme.

Mindful of AEC discomfiture over the court-backed refusal by Woodside, Calif., to permit the erection of three overhead power lines to another big BEV smasher at Stanford University, Orlando told the AEC, in effect: We love your ugly power poles.

Many proposers stressed proximity to established centers of science and nuclear learning. Others offered to beef up existing facilities.

Kentucky, for example, said that if it gets the smasher, the next session of the legislature will be asked to budget funds for a school of advanced engineering at the University of Kentucky.

Reverse Pitch

The reverse sales pitch was used by several areas of Appalachia. Their plea was simple: We lack money, scientific atmosphere and cultural advantages. Put the smasher here and we will eventually have them.

The presentation by Atlanta, Ga., covered all technical requirements and candidly discussed its race relations.

As for culture, the city declared that if the late author-critic H. L. Mencken "found here a Sahara of the Bozart, Atlanta is determined to make the desert bloom."

Nobody has made an outright offer of cash to get the huge machine. But one state, Kentucky, offered to finance the whole enterprise by floating a $300-million bond issue.

AEC officials doubt, for a variety of incompletely explored legal reasons, that the state "can get such a scheme to fly."

OMAHA and LINCOLN

Show your family the beauties of nature along this historic and scenic drive.

Where the Pony Express Started and Jesse James Met His End

Here's a 338-mile loop drive from Omaha.

It reveals a vivid cross-section of natural beauty, outdoor sports, historic sites and old legends.

THIS one-day (or weekend) auto trip brings a wide range of fun sure to please the family. In addition to swimming, fishing, boating and picnicking, you'll have ample opportunity to play golf, hunt and hike. Everyone will find a wonderful array of scenic and historic places. Among them are sites of old Indian ceremonial, trading posts and westward emigrant trails. You'll also see Pony Express and railroad terminals, frontier forts, homesteads, bandit lairs and religious shrines. So get an early start, for you won't want to miss anything on this exciting tour from . . .

Om. OMAHA. Start in downtown Omaha and drive east on U.S. 6 to . . .

3m. COUNCIL BLUFFS. Today Council Bluffs is chiefly a railroad and industrial community. In by-gone days it was a site of numerous Indian pow-wows. Visit the MORON TRAIL MEMORIAL in Bayless Park, the LEWIS AND CLARK MONUMENT on scenic Rainbow Drive, and the LINCOLN MONUMENT at Lafayette and Oakland Avenues.

About a mile south of town, you can try LAKE MANAWA STATE PARK (near the Missouri River) for swimming, fishing, golf and picnicking. Now U.S. 275, your tour route, veers away from the river and takes you to . . .

46m. SIDNEY, IOWA. About seven miles southwest of this community, on Route 2, is WAUBONSIE STATE PARK. It has an air of the Southwest about it, with its interesting growths of yucca and pawpaw. If you want to picnic or camp, this is a fine place. Past here, the route goes through Hamburg and crosses the state line into Missouri, where it makes a . . .

82m. JUNCTION WITH U.S. 59.

A short drive north of here on U.S. 59 lies the community of Tarkio, whose early residents had the unfortunate distinction of overconfidently building a county courthouse before a vote was taken on the county seat.

Their town lost, so they trumped the move by converting the empty structure into the present TARKIO COLLEGE. The tour route now follows U.S. 59 southward across level farmlands, angling eastward through MOUND CITY and SAVANNAH. About three miles from St. Joseph, U.S. 59 bears sharply westward off Interstate 29. You arrive at . . .

154m. ST. JOSEPH, MO. once an important Indian and fur-trading post. St. Joseph was the starting point for historic routes like the Oregon Trail and, later a river port and a frontier railroad terminus. St. Joseph now is a thriving grain and livestock market. It is also an agricultural trade center. Despite all its progress, the city hasn't forgotten its pioneer past. It was at the PONY EXPRESS STABLES MUSEUM, for example, that the first westward ride of that famed service began. The museum has exhibits both on the Pony Express and on the early history of the city. The ST. JOSEPH MUSEUM has Indian collections as well as historic and natural science exhibits, including rare Eskimo and Chinese objects.

On the east edge of town, you can inspect the cottage where Jesse James, alias "Mr. Howard," was gunned down (just as the old ballad says) by Bob Ford, a former henchman who coveted the $10,000 reward.

On the city's northern end, KRUG PARK has a natural amphitheater. Take the scenic 20-mile boulevard trip through St. Joseph to HYDE PARK. On a weekend trip, you might like to continue south on Interstate 29 to Kansas City. The tour route, U.S. 59, swings southwestward to cross the Missouri River.

207m. HORTON, KAN. Five miles west of here, on Route 20, is the KICKAPOO INDIAN RESERVATION.

U.S. 73, however, veers directly north. Northeastward, via a side trip on U.S. 36, is BROWN COUNTY STATE LAKE, another family play area. At HIAWATHA, the DAVIS MEMORIAL presents an unusual showpiece with several life-size statues depicting an interesting local man, John A. Davis, and his wife at various stages in their lives. Shortly after crossing the Kansas-Nebraska line, you enter FALLS CITY, named for the falls of the Big Nebraskan River. Northwestward, just off the highway, stop at VERDON RECREATION AREA and treat the family to a bit of play and relaxation. You'll find camping, picnicking, boating, fishing and hunting here.

179m. ATCHISON, KAN. Closely associated with railroading—as evidenced by monuments and an old locomotive in one of the parks—Atchison is a great "Old West" town.

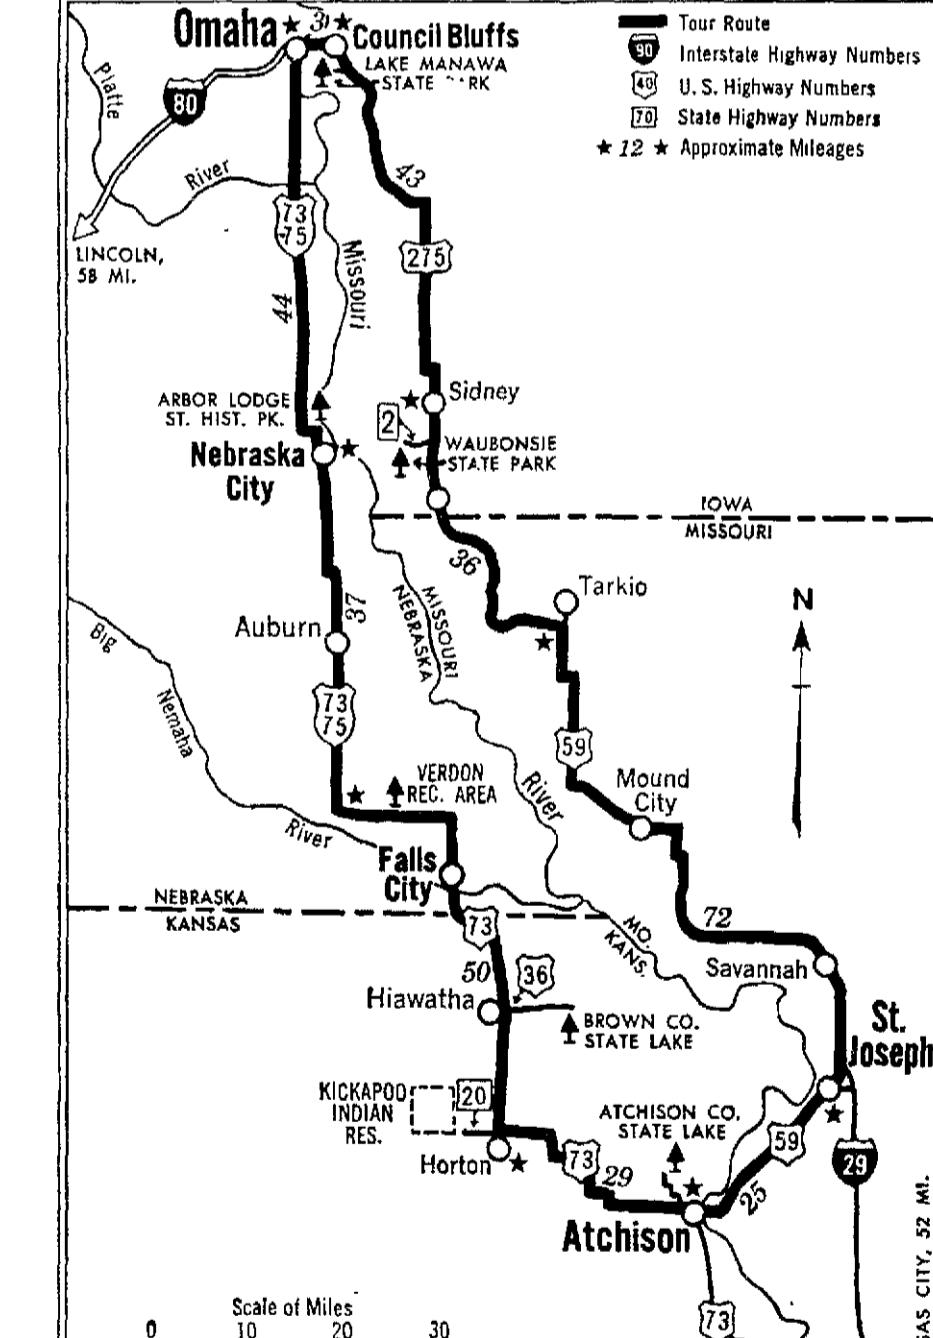

Be sure to drive through 113-acre JACKSON PARK. From ST. BENEDICT'S COLLEGE on the river bluffs, you can see breath-taking landscapes. You'll want to take a look here, too, at the Middle Ages-style BENEDICTINE MONASTERY and the new ABBEY CHAPEL. A half hour's motoring south on U.S. 73 takes you to FORT LEAVENWORTH, where THE MUSEUM shows off such frontier paraphernalia as a Lincoln carriage, Custer's pay wagon, military vehicles, old guns and Indian artifacts.

Six miles northwest of Atchison is ATCHISON COUNTY STATE LAKE, where you can fish in a 70-acre lake, picnic and camp out. From Atchison, follow U.S. 73 west and north.

257m. JUNCTION WITH U.S. 75.

The highway (U.S. 73 & 75) goes north again and soon rejoins the broad Missouri River, crossing the orchard country around AUBURN, and leading to . . .

Four Vocal Soloists Picked For All-State Performances

Four Nebraska high school students have been selected to present solo vocal performances in All-State musical programs this week at the University of Nebraska.

They are Terry Yates, son of Col. and Mrs. C. B. Yates Jr. of Bellevue; Mark Zalkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Zalkin of Omaha; Debbie West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd West of Lincoln, and Bob Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Jones of York.

Yates and Zalkin will sing solo parts in Monday evening's performance of "I Want to Die Easy," and "Libera Me." They will per-

The museum has exhibits both on the Pony Express and on the early history of the city. The ST. JOSEPH MUSEUM has Indian collections as well as historic and natural science exhibits, including rare Eskimo and Chinese objects.

On the east edge of town, you can inspect the cottage where Jesse James, alias "Mr. Howard," was gunned down (just as the old ballad says) by Bob Ford, a former henchman who coveted the $10,000 reward.

On the city's northern end, KRUG PARK has a natural amphitheater. Take the scenic 20-mile boulevard trip through St. Joseph to HYDE PARK. On a weekend trip, you might like to continue south on Interstate 29 to Kansas City. The tour route, U.S. 59, swings southwestward to cross the Missouri River.

207m. HORTON, KAN. Five miles west of here, on Route 20, is the KICKAPOO INDIAN RESERVATION.

U.S. 73, however, veers directly north. Northeastward, via a side trip on U.S. 36, is BROWN COUNTY STATE LAKE, another family play area.

At HIAWATHA, the DAVIS MEMORIAL presents an unusual showpiece with several life-size statues depicting an interesting local man, John A. Davis, and his wife at various stages in their lives.

Shortly after crossing the Kansas-Missouri line, you enter FALLS CITY, named for the falls of the Big Nemaha River.

Northwestward, just off the highway, stop at VERDON RECREATION AREA and treat the family to a bit of play and relaxation. You'll find camping, picnicking, boating, fishing and hunting here.

179m. ATCHISON, KAN. Closely associated with railroading—as evidenced by monuments and an old locomotive in one of the parks—Atchison is a great "Old West" town.

Be sure to drive through 113-acre JACKSON PARK. From ST. BENEDICT'S COLLEGE on the river bluffs, you can see breath-taking landscapes.

You'll want to take a look here, too, at the Middle Ages-style BENEDICTINE MONASTERY and the new ABBEY CHAPEL.

A half hour's motoring south on U.S. 73 takes you to FORT LEAVENWORTH, where THE MUSEUM shows off such frontier paraphernalia as a Lincoln carriage, Custer's pay wagon, military vehicles, old guns and Indian artifacts.

Six miles northwest of Atchison is ATCHISON COUNTY STATE LAKE, where you can fish in a 70-acre lake, picnic and camp out.

From Atchison, follow U.S. 73 west and north again and soon rejoins the broad Missouri River, crossing the orchard country around AUBURN, and leading to . . .

257m. JUNCTION WITH U.S. 75. The highway (U.S. 73 & 75) goes north again and soon rejoins the broad Missouri River, crossing the orchard country around AUBURN, and leading to . . .

338m. OMAHA. Home again, you and your family have experienced a delightful motor loop spiced with fun, glimpses of the past and eye-catching scenery in this heartland of America.

Beatle Brief

Rome (UPI)—Rome police rescued from the Tiber a 20-year-old girl they identified as Giorgia Matracca. Police said she plunged into the river after quarreling with her fiancee. Several Roman newspapers said a cause of the dispute was that her boy friend refused to take the girl to the Beatles show.

FLOYD CAPTURES OPEN

Finishes Four Strokes Ahead

IN ST. PAUL TOURNEY

St Paul, Minn. (P) — Raymond Floyd, a 22-year-old pro from St. Andrews, Ill., won the $100,000 St. Paul Open Golf Tournament Sunday, finishing four strokes ahead of Tommy Aaron and Gene Littler to cop the $20,000 first place check.

Floyd came in with a two-under-par 69 in Sunday's final round for a 72-hole total of 270, 14 under par.

The blustery winds, gusting to 30 miles an hour, on the par 36-35-71, 6,700-yard Keller course, didn't seem to bother him as it did others.

Aaron slipped to a one-over 72 Sunday, while Littler came in at a one-under 70 to deadlock at 274. Each won $9,750.

Fourth was Dean Refram with a 67 Sunday for a 275 total. He won $5,000.

Deadlocked for fifth at 276 were Jack Nicklaus, who toured in 68 Sunday, and Bruce Devlin, who had a 72. Each won $3,833.

Then came Arnold Palmer, Joe Campbell, Dick Sikes, and Gardner Dickinson, all with 277. Palmer had a 72, Campbell a 70 and Dickinson Sunday's best round at 64. They each took home $2,225.

Tied at 278 were Johnny Pott, Lionel Hebert and Frank Beard, while Dick Mayer and Jacky Cupit came in with 279s.

Bracketted at 280 were Billy Casper and Bob Goalby. Canadian Paul Bondeson was alone at 281.

Floyd started the day at 12-under-par, only one stroke in front of halfway leader Aaron. Floyd shot a three-under 33 on the first nine to go 15 under par and nobody could catch him after that.

Dickinson made the biggest charge of the final round, going out in two-under 34 and coming in with a five-under 30, the latter the best nine hole round of the tournament.

Mills Edges Lindgren In Six-Miles; Jim Ryun Defeats Snell In Mile Run

... AT AAU CHAMPIONSHIPS

San Diego, Calif. (P-Billy Mills and Gerry Lindgren rocked the record book and 18-year-old Jim Ryun shocked the track world by defeating the great Peter Snell as the National AAU Track and Field Championships came to a close with brilliant performances Sunday night.

Mills and 19-year-old Lindgren provided the first excitement for the 15,000 fans in Balboa Stadium when they finished mere inches apart, both clocked in world record time of 27:11.6 in the grueling six-mile run.

Ryun, a high school youngster from Wichita, Kan., delivered the final thrill when he beat out Snell and Jim Grelle in the mile and did it in an American citizen's record time of 3:55.3.

New Zealand's Snell, who held the world record until Michel Jazy of France broke it June 9, was tied in 3:55.4, and Grelle was third in 3:55.5.

The mile was viewed as strictly a race between Snell and Grelle, who runs for the Multnomah Athletic Club of Portland, Ore.—a point that both veteran runners agreed upon before the meet started.

Both the New Zealander and Grelle stayed off the pace set by Cary Weisiger, and obviously they were running to beat each other rather than to beat a record.

But suddenly on the last lap, after Josef Odlozil of Czechoslovakia had forged briefly to the front, up came young Ryun with a burst and a sizeable lead.

Grelle charged up to challenge and on came Snell. Snell managed to collar Grelle but he could not catch the youngster from Kansas. As he passed the finish line, Snell reached over and gave Ryun a hug with his left arm.

The American citizen's record was held by Jim Beatty at 3:55.5 and there was one pending by Grelle of 3:55.4, set June 5 at Vancouver, B.C.

The Mills-Lindgren struggle was one that kept the crowd in a roar throughout and produced a thunderous ovation at the windup.

The 25-year-old Mills, the 10,000-meter winner in the 1964 Olympic Games, and 19-year-old Gerry, center of a bitter controversy between the ruling bodies of track and field, hit the tape just inches apart after a blazing last lap that had the crowd in Balboa Stadium standing and in an uproar.

Lindgren, who had dogged in terrier fashion on Mills' heels all the way, jumped in front with about 150 yards to go and held the lead for some 30 yards.

The climax of the event, a highlight of the National AAU Track and Field Championships, came when Mills drew on all the reserve strength he had and managed to take the lead just before the finish of the long grind.

Wind, Rain Bothersome For Golfers

Huge winds and rain played havoc with golfers with weekend play being slowed considerably.

Elmer Schleuger found the range late Sunday at the Knolls, however, and registered a hole-in-one on No. 9.

Matt Taber posted the low gross score for the weekend as he fired a 71 at Lincoln Country Club.

Gerry's, the defending CLL champion, tightened up the league race last week when it swept a pair from Norfolk. Game time for the intra-city clash tonight is 8 o'clock.

Mimi's Advantage

Greensboro, N.C. (P)—Mimi Henreid of UCLA seized the advantage early and turned Nadine Netter's errant racquet into a 6-1, 1-6, 6-1 victory in the singles of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association's women's collegiate championships Sunday.

OFFUTT SNAPS MOOSE STREAK

Omaha—Offutt Air Force Base clipped the Lincoln Moose Sunday, 2-1, ending the Moose's winning streak at 12 games. The Omahans got one run in the third inning, making the score 2-1, and then stalled until rain and hail shortened the contest after five  $\frac{1}{2}$  innings.

The Moose erupted for five runs on seven hits in the top of the sixth, but the Offutt stall became effective when the rains came with only one gone in the bottom of the inning. The score reverted to the last complete inning.

Swimming coach Dr. Gene Beck has been selected for the Midwest AAU swimming committee.

CITY NETTERS CLUB COLUMBUS

The Lincoln Tennis club won 13 of 14 matches against the Columbus Tennis Club Sunday in a match at the Lincoln Tennis Club courts. The results:

Support Of Viet Nam Policy Strong On Surface

By LOUIS HARRIS
On the surface, at least, President Johnson has strong support for the course he has charted in the war in Viet Nam.

Almost half of all Americans (and more than 60% of those who have formed an opinion) are prepared to back additional U.S. troop commitments to Harris to repel any Viet Cong offensive in the next few months. Nearly 60% of the public approves of retaliatory bombings of North Viet Nam. And support for Johnson's general handling of the war in Viet Nam has risen to 65% now, compared with 57% in April and only 41% in January.

The key to these American attitudes lies in the overwhelming conviction of the American people that the Communists will take over all of Southeast Asia if the United States fails to stand fast in South Viet Nam. Sixteen of every 20 Americans believe that, and only 1 out of 20 is convinced it would not happen.

The objective that most people support in South Viet Nam is to hold the line in order to force the Communists into negotiations. Thus, a majority now believes that Johnson should get what he says he needs in terms of bombings and American troops in order to put the nation in a position of negotiating from strength.

Never Oppose Not Sure

Believe Amer will go Communist if we don't firm in Viet Nam	70%	5%	15%
Proposal for unconditional negotiations	73%	9%	12%
Overall handling of Viet Nam	6%	3%	5%
Send more U.S. troops during monsoon season	47%	30%	23%
Retaliatory bombing	30%	1%	2%

But this endorsement of the tactics and aims of the U.S. government is only half the story of American public opinion and the war in Viet Nam. Simmering below the surface are misgivings and confusion about the implications of American policy.

The American people are sharply divided, for example, over the President's proposal for a long-term $1 billion aid program to the countries of Southeast Asia. By a slim 7 to 6 margin, more people are for it than against it.

And they are not firmly convinced that the United States can reach its ultimate goal in Viet Nam. Only 41% are convinced that the defense of South Viet Nam can be built up sufficiently to negotiate from strength. A third of the public thinks this cannot be done while a quarter of the people aren't sure what might happen.

Widespread unease also exists over the fact that the United States is demanding that Communists stay out of our hemisphere while we are heavily engaged on the borders of Red China. By another 7 to 6 margin, people reject the idea that Red China has as much right to non-encroachment as we have claimed in such places as the Dominican Republic.

Another area of public doubt is over the possibility that the United States might get involved in a land war on the continent of Asia that it might not be able to win. Only by a very close 9 to 8 margin, with a third of the nation unsure, do people think such a bogging down of U.S. forces is unlikely.

Agree Disagree Not Sure	Johnson billion-dollar aid program	42%	35%	23%
President defense of S. Vietnam	41%	33%	26%
United States says Red ought to leave places near our borders	35%	41%	24%
United States might get involved in Asia	32%	35%	33%

These findings indicate that the American people have once again united behind the President in his efforts to shore up the defense of South Viet Nam and are willing to endure what is needed to do

Support Of Viet Nam Policy Strong On Surface

By LOUIS HARRIS

On the surface, at least, President Johnson has strong support for the course he has charted in the war in Viet Nam.

Almost half of all Americans (and more than 60% of those who have formed an opinion) are prepared to back additional U.S. troop commitments to Harris repel any Viet Cong offensive in the next few months. Nearly 60% of the public approves of retaliatory bombings of North Viet Nam. And support for Johnson's general handling of the war in Viet Nam has risen to 65% now, compared with 57% in April and only 41% in January.

The key to these American attitudes lies in the overwhelming conviction of the American people that the Communists will take over all of Southeast Asia if the United States fails to stand fast in South Viet Nam. Sixteen of every 20 Americans believe that, and only 1 out of 20 is convinced it would not happen.

The objective that most people support in South Viet Nam is to hold the line in order to force the Communists into negotiations. Thus, a majority now believes that Johnson should get what he says he needs in terms of bombings and American troops in order to put the nation in a position of negotiating from strength.

	Favor	Oppose	Not Sure
Believe Asia will go Communist if we don't stand firm in Viet Nam	75%	5%	16%
Proposed for unconditional negotiations	73%	9%	18%
Overall approval of Viet Nam	62%	33%	5%
Send more U.S. troops to repel Viet Cong during monsoon season	47%	30%	23%
Retaliatory bombings	56%	18%	23%

But this endorsement of the tactics and aims of the U.S. government is only half the story of American public opinion and the war in Viet Nam. Simmering below the surface are misgivings and confusion about the implications of American policy.

The American people are sharply divided, for example, over the President's proposal for a long-term $1 billion aid program to the countries of Southeast Asia. By a slim 7 to 6 margin, more people are for it than against it.

And they are not firmly convinced that the United States can reach its ultimate goal in Viet Nam. Only 41% are convinced that the defense of South Viet Nam can be built up sufficiently to negotiate from strength. A third of the public thinks this cannot be done while a quarter of the people aren't sure what might happen.

Widespread unease also exists over the fact that the United States is demanding that Communists stay out of our hemisphere while we are heavily engaged on the borders of Red China. By another 7 to 6 margin, people reject the idea that Red China has

as much right to non-encroachment as we have claimed in such places as the Dominican Republic.

In short, President Johnson is not in trouble now with the American people over Viet Nam, although he could be in deep trouble in a matter of months if the United States proves unable to resist Viet Cong thrusts or to bring about an honorable negotiated peace.

Typical of the current high support for the tactics of the President is a 32-year-old office manager from Somers Point, N.J., who said, "I don't like to see more Americans killed uselessly, but it is worth it for the next six months or so if it brings peace." A 44-year-old business executive from Phoenix, Ariz., a Goldwater man in 1964, added,

"We have to draw the line somewhere and it better be over there than here. We didn't do it in Cuba when we should have." In Balaton, Minn., a 76-year-old housewife said, "We had to go in and we should go for victory in South Viet Nam. Otherwise the Communists will take over all of Asia."

The Lincoln Star 11

Nobody seems to see the snowman. Just great big abominable tracks.

So how do we know he is abominable, Fellows?

To the Abominable Snow-lady, the Abominable Snowman may look well, fetchingly abominable. And vice versa.

With the lama's information at hand, the fellows are now trying to track the leading Snowlady.

"The female of the species usually follows more well-defined paths. Being more dependent on regular sources of supply for the young." That is the way they put it in a dispatch to base camp.

The way to track the snow-lady, I should think, is to track her like any other lady. I am a lady-tracker of some skill. The White Hunter.

Track her to the second floor dress department. For that is where she said she would be at 3 p.m.

But it happens she forgot her gloves at lunch and had to go back for them.

This reminded her that it is the very last day of the sale on remnants — and heaven knows if there is anything we are short of, it's remnants.

While checking the remnants — and we couldn't find anything you'd put in a dog house — well, she ran into Mrs. Faddlefield. The one who used to live up on — of course, you remember! Why be difficult?

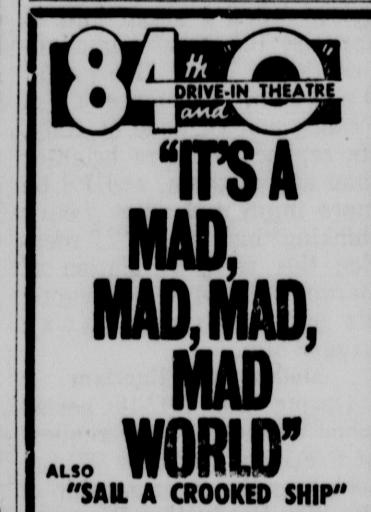

And what with one thing and another, the time went by.

Because there simply isn't enough time to do all the things we have to do.

And, naturally, you found her in the hosiery department. Because that was where she was. She needed hose. So why all the steaming up about meeting in the dress department?

You both got together, didn't you? Well?

Safeway's the best place in town to buy Ground Beef

No ordinary "Hamburger" can please you like this fine beef meat Safeway prepares for you fresh every day...here's why:

- Safeway's Ground Beef holds volume in cooking (shrinks very little!) because just the proper amount of fat for moistness is included with the beef.
- It's packed in 1, 2, and 3-pound modern flavor-sealed packages. Easier to store in your refrigerator! Easier to slice in patties to pop in the pan!
- Safeway Ground Beef (it's all beef) is uniformly lean, juicy and flavorful every day in every store. It actually gives you a plus value in good-eating meat per pound and per penny.

People on the go...go Safeway!

South African Fathers Pictured As Work-Shy

Johannesburg, South Africa enters a good insight into the family activities of father. According to many South African children, father is nothing more than a fun-loving, work-shy, play boy who spends more time admiring pretty girls than he does working.

This was the conclusion drawn from a recent painting contest in which South African children were asked to "paint your dad"—and did with a vengeance.

Only five paintings among the 500 submitted showed dad doing any form of work.

Mrs. Joan Tearable, organizer of the contest, considers the she said. "I was a little shocked as this theme ran through the majority of the 500 paintings submitted by children, ranging in age from 5 to 15. Seldom was dad seen as a hard-working man."

"It seems as though most children see father as someone who never goes to the office but spends most of his time surrounded by golf clubs, tennis rackets and fishing rods."

Only one of the youthful artists showed dad doing any work: washing up over the kitchen sink. Most others depicted him as a sleeping lump beneath the bedclothes, swimming, sunning himself on the beach or just loafing around reading newspapers and comics.

Gazing At Blonde

Johannesburg teenager Monica Niekerk saw dad as a man with an appreciation for the prettier things of life. She painted him gazing at a blonde.

Parents who attended the public showing of "paint your dad" raised many an eyebrow; all the paintings were signed. One father, whose daughter signed her name in inch-high letters, portrayed dad ogling a shapely next door neighbor.

Mrs. Tearable disclosed that many of the young painters failed to tell their parents about their artistic entries. One 10-year-old saw her father, a well known Johannesburg socialite, as a suave, champagne-drinking, fun-loving playboy.

Her entry was quietly withdrawn.

TEEN'S DAD . . . sees finer things in life.

Engagement Of Beatrix To Be Told

Amsterdam, Netherlands

The royal family announces the engagement Monday of Princess Beatrix, next in line to the Dutch throne, to a West German nobleman whose background has stirred the wrath of Dutch subjects who retain bitter memories of wartime German occupation.

The Dutch are divided as to whether Claus Von Amsberg, 38, a former German soldier and now a diplomat, is acceptable as a prince-consort to the future queen, even though the government and parliament have given their blessing.

The engagement will be announced on television and radio by Queen Juliana and German-born Prince Bernhard, who is highly regarded as Holland's best good-will ambassador and can be expected to play a major role in guiding his future son-in-law in his efforts to win the nation's esteem.

Followed Hearts

Within 16 months, three of the royal couple's four daughters have followed their hearts—but only the choice of Margriet, the third daughter, won popular political approval. She was engaged last March to a Dutch commoner, Pieter Vap, a student friend.

The romance, engagement and wedding of Princess Irene last year to Spanish Prince Carlos Hugo Bourbon Parma brought the nation to the verge of a constitutional crisis. Carlos was rejected for political reasons, being a self-styled Carlist pretender to the vacant Spanish throne.

Irene turned Roman Catholic and married him in her parents' absence and without parliamentary approval. Thus she lost her rights of succession to the throne. She had been second in line.

Beatrix, 27, first met Von Amsberg, who is of low-ranking German nobility, last June in Germany at the wedding of a German princess. They came together again in February on a winter sports vacation in Switzerland.

The romance came into the open through the publication of pictures showing the couple holding hands, in the garden of Castle Drakenstein, Beatrix' home. The royal parents then asked the nation to give their daughter quiet and time for a well-considered decision.

Antecedents Acceptable

After the government was informed, Von Amsberg's antecedents were investigated and found acceptable. Prime Minister Jozef Cals briefed parliamentary leaders who, with a few exceptions, said parliament would not object to a wedding. A two-thirds majority, as required by the constitution, seemed assured for the future legislation to make Von Amsberg a Dutch citizen and approving the wedding. The queen is expected to make him a "prince of the Netherlands."

Despite parliamentary blessing of the engagement, the public debate continues in letters to newspapers and in statements by former wartime resistance leaders.

South Viets Riddle Red Meeting

Saigon, Viet Nam — South Vietnamese troops killed 31 Viet Cong, including seven provincial and local officials Sunday in a lightning raid on a Mekong Delta village 35 miles south of Saigon. U.S. military informants reported.

They called it the biggest single bag of Viet Cong of officials in the war.

The Red guerrillas struck back Monday with a mortar barrage on an air field and district headquarters at Nha Trang, an old China Sea resort town 200 miles northeast of Saigon. U.S. spokesman said earlier attacks.

U.S. spokesman said the planes destroyed one of two 105 mm howitzers seized by the guerrillas from the town's defenders. The other was damaged, they said. If the guerrillas had succeeded in carrying off the artillery pieces intact, they would have been the first guns of such size known to be in the hands of the Viet Cong.

The danger of ambush in the remote area and unsuitable flying conditions for helicopters apparently delayed an effort by South Vietnamese ground troops to dislodge the guerrillas.

Sixty-eight U.S. warplanes struck inside North Viet Nam, hitting ammunition dumps, bridges, highways and military compounds, an American spokesman said.

Taylor Threat

And in Saigon, a U.S. embassy spokesman brusquely aside a Viet Cong threat to kill U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and other U.S. and South Vietnamese officials. He called the threat "beneath contempt."

Pope's announcement follows one by U.S. Atty. Theodore Richling, who said he favors Lincoln as the trial site. Both sides are allowed an expression before the matter is decided by the U.S. District Court judge.

Pope, 22, rural Roxbury, Kan., was indicted by a federal grand jury in Omaha. He is accused in connection with the deaths of three persons at the Farmers State Bank of Big Springs, June 4; the wounding of a fourth employee, and the theft of some $1,500.

Richling said he will seek the death penalty.

Crosby, who will handle Pope's defense along with University of Nebraska law professor Wallace M. Rudolph, said Pope's plea has not been decided although the matter is receiving careful study now.

Pope is in the maximum security section of the Nebraska penitentiary here. His arraignment date is still under consideration.

According to the U.S. informants the Viet Cong dead included the provincial chief, a district chief, a provincial military deputy, the political commissar for the Viet Cong's 261st battalion, a provincial deputy for administration, a deputy for economics and a district finance chief.

The Americans added that the South Vietnamese 7th Division ordered the raid after learning of the high-level provincial meeting through reliable intelligence information.

Red Stronghold

The Mekong Delta has been a Viet Cong stronghold throughout the war.

The U.S. informants said that the South Vietnamese troops also destroyed, with the help of the U.S. warplanes, a Viet Cong hospital in the Tan Hiep area.

The government forces scored a measure of success also by turning the fight for Duc Hoa, 20 miles west of Saigon. The Viet Cong overran the village Saturday in a blazing fight that echoed in Saigon. But a U.S. military spokesman reported that retreating South Vietnamese turned and launched a counterattack.

A U.S. spokesman said the government casualties amounted to 44 dead and the Viet Cong to 34.

In the central highlands, the Viet Cong still held the remote district capital of Tou Morong in Kontum Province, 290 miles north of Saigon.

The spokesman said Taylor and the others have been well protected for some time.

In the Mekong raid, government forces were flown in by U.S. helicopters and supported by U.S. Air Force and Navy planes. The American informants said.

31 Viet Cong Dead

They reported that 31 Viet Cong, including the seven officials, were slain and 29 taken prisoner. South Vietnamese officers expressed the belief the Viet Cong guerrillas carried off another 50 dead in their withdrawal from Tan Hiep village.

According to the U.S. informants the Viet Cong dead included the provincial chief, a district chief, a provincial military deputy, the political commissar for the Viet Cong's 261st battalion, a provincial deputy for administration, a deputy for economics and a district finance chief.

No U.S. casualties were reported.

In the central highlands U.S. Air Force B-57s and Marine Corps Phantom jets carried out 16 strikes early Monday against Tu Morong, a district capital seized by the Communists Saturday.

Bad flying weather prevented earlier attacks.

Parachutist Towed

Moscow (P) — A Soviet paratrooper who holds world and national records, Vyacheslav Zharikov, flew through the air at 119 miles an hour at the end of an airplane-towed cable, Tass reported. He then dropped free and opened his parachute above 100,000 spectators at an air show at Tula and landed safely, the news agency said.

11, Including George W. Holdrege, Picked For Western Hall Of Fame

Oklahoma City (P) — Eleven persons identified with the development of the West were inducted Sunday into the Hall of Fame of Great Westerners.

Trustees of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center made the selections as part of ceremonies officially opening the center here.

Capt. Meriwether Lewis and Capt. William Clark were elected to the hall of fame at large. Others selected, by states, were:

New Mexico — Holma Olaf Bursum (1867-1953), rancher and U.S. senator.

California — Joseph Russ, cattleman and builder.

Nebraska — George Ward Holdrege (1847-1926), rancher and railroad builder.

Wyoming — William (Billy) Irvine (1852-1924), pioneer stockman, builder and range manager.

Texas — J. Frank Dobie (1888-1964), author and folklorist.

Nevada — Henry Hallowell Cazier (1885-1963), rancher and engineer.

North Dakota — Frank Keogh (1877-1958), pioneer rancher.

Montana — Mortimer Hewlett Lott (1827-1920), mining operator and rancher.

Oklahoma — Lynn Riggs, author and playwright.

Monahan Cattle Company, hosts of the fourth annual Nebraska Junior Hereford field day, established a new national record of attendance for events that offer a registered Hereford to the top judge of the Nebraska Junior Hereford Association.

Wade was number two in competition between nearly 500 junior judges, but the number one place in the contest went to Roger Fink of Elsmere, a non member of the junior organization.

Top place among adult judges was won by John L. Beaumont of Rose.

Another registered heifer presented by Monahan as a door prize went to Robert England of North Platte.

Nearly 1,400 junior and adult cattlemen attended the event.

This image is a collage of numerous classified ads from a historical newspaper, likely from the early 20th century. The ads are arranged in a grid-like fashion and cover a wide range of topics including:

- Real Estate for Rent: Listings for houses, apartments, and commercial spaces.
- Apartments for Rent: Detailed descriptions of furnished and unfurnished apartments.
- Business Listings: Advertisements for various businesses such as "The LAVATY COMPANY", "H.A. WOLF CO.", and "CADCO".
- Personal Ads: Short notices for individuals seeking roommates or partners.
- Classified Ads: General notices, including one for "A TYPING SCHOOL".

The text is in a dense, cursive-style font, typical of early printed newspapers. Many ads include small illustrations or decorative elements. The overall layout is very busy and packed with information.

WISHING WELL

by William J. Miller

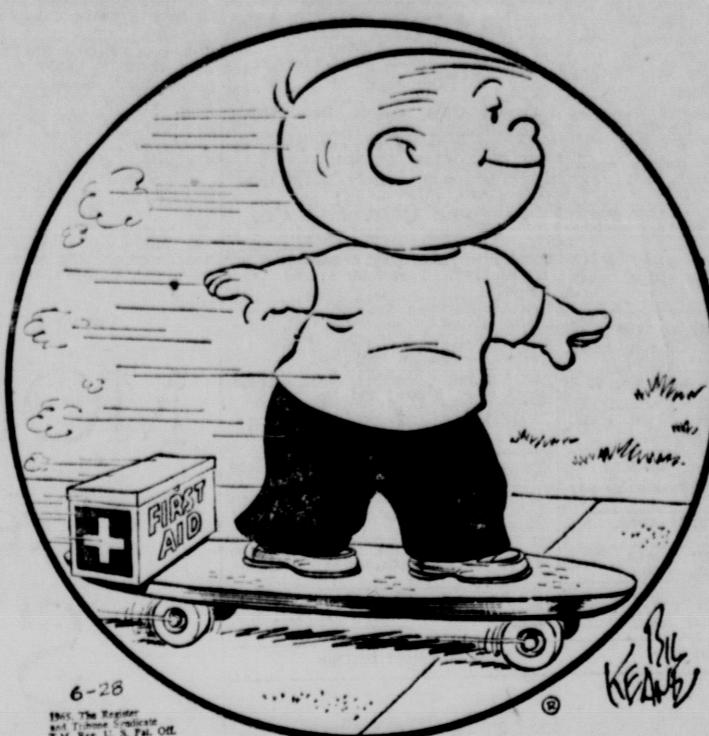

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in the first name of the person. The result of letters is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result of your name minus the number left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures run.
